Ultimatum Issued By Aaron Sapiro

California Attorney Speaking at Point Where Hostility to Co-operative Association Is Seen.

FARMVILLE, May 31.—Farmville business men will get behind the co-operative tobacco sales system or members of the tobacco growers co-operative associatin will get on top of the business men

That is the untimatum delivered by Aaron Sapiro, who today delivered the second of five speeches he is to make in the territory from which the towns most opposed to the co-operative system draw most of their tobacco.

Nearly 2,000 farmers heard Sapiro There were few among the number who did not laud him for the work he is doing. There was none unconvinced of his sincerety nor untouched by his feverent appeal for the adoption of methods which he says will free the farmer from the economic shackles which have been his for gentrations.

Here is was greeted by people who are midway between the great markets of Wilson, Greenville, Rocky Mount, and Kinston, where nearly half the eastern Carolina tobacco crop has been sold under the old auction system and where the fountain head of all the opposition to the association is.

"Are you business men going to follow the wolves of Wilson, the hypocrites of Rocky Mount and the sheep of Greenville?" he asked, "or are you going to align yourselves with an association which has for its prime purpose the prosperity of the farmers from whom you get trade, and the development of your town?"

The association will give no quarter to the towns whose merchants and bankers and warehousemen fight the co-oerative idea, Mr Sapiro declared.

"We are going to help those who help us. Those who want war will get it—in plenty."

Farmville, as in Washington yesterday, many farm wives came with their husbands to hear the little Californian who has organized 60 successful farmers, co-operative associations in the United States and Canada. They were much interested and they let many sheepish looking fellows to the secretary to sign the contract through which all the tobacco produced by the signers during the next five years will be turned over to the association

Big Car and Liquor Caught

Local police officers made a hurried liquor haul this morning about 10 o'clock, which netted them thirty-five gallons of corn whiskey, the confiscation of a fine Studebaker touring car and the arrest of W P Thomas, better known as "Pat" Thomas The haul was made on Spring street by Police Officers O W. Bates, O. T Cook, W. S Edwards, A. C. Morgan and T. E Bowles.

When first seen by the officers Thomas was running at top speed, but was soon caught and placed under arrest The man denied any connection with the whiskey stating that he happened to be close to the machine when he saw the police and thought it wise to leave On the other hand, the police thought [illegible] his actions were suspicious and the fact that the car contained the load of whiskey warranted his arrest. The machine is said to be owned by Roland Dix, who is known to the police it is said, as a whiskey runner Thomas is also said to have the same reputation and was suspected of operating from the mountain sections around Martinsville to Danville His home is said to be at Koehler, but he is frequently seen here A bond of $500 was required of Thomas, which he was unable to furnish early this afternoon.

Talbott Files His Candidacy

Frank Talbott has filed formal notice of his candidacy for re-election as superintendent of city gas, electric light and water works with John W. Carter, chairman of the City Democratic Executive Committee With the application were petitions containing about four hundred names and the receipt of City Treasurer Geophegan. Eugene H Marshall, who is opposing Mr. Talbott filed his papers also yesterday with a substantial endorsement.

It has been currently reported for several days that Mr Carter is considering coming out for Congress from the Fifth District, and that he has been approached from several different sources. Approached on this subject Mr. Carter was unprepared to make any statement. Friends of Mr Carter appear to think that he is giving the matter weighty consideration Tonight will see the expiration of the time limit for announcements so that some decision is expected during the course of the day.

Harding's Pledge Is Put to The Test

Ship Interests Fight Bill to Keep Men in Navy Yards Employd—Measure Full of Dynamite.

WASHINGTON, May 31—President Harding's inaugural declaration that the Federal Government should be kept out of business will be tested in legislation for "industrial preparedness," now under consideration by the House Naval Affairs Committee Hearings are being held before a subcommittee. Coming near the campaign period, and being favored and opposed by large groups, leaders fear it is filled with political dynamite

The measure seeks to devise ways and means of supplying the men in Navy Yards and arsenals with plenty of work. It is an outgrowth of the Arms Conference and the plans made there to scrap ships and stop shipbuilding.

Representative Hull, (Rep. Ia) sponsored the bill Other members from his State and from Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Illinois are pressing foor action

Within a few days owners of private shipyards and industrial plants have signafied their intention to fight the measure on the ground it would put the Government in competition with private business

A hard fight was waged in the House a few months ago over the decision of the Shipping Board to have the Leviathan reconditioned at the Boston Navy Yard instead of at Norfolk. Administration forces won out, however, and the vessel went to the latter place.

The Hull bill would require the Government to have all repair and construction work done at its own plants wherever they are equipped for the work.

Make Proposal On Paving Two Streets

Several property owners on Mount Vernon and Virginia avenues held a meeting at the Y. M C A. last night for the purpose of discussing a proposal which is understood to emanate from the Finance Committee of the council relative to the paving of those two streets About 25 property holders of the 65 on those streets attended the meeting The proposal is that if the property owners will carry the interest on $30,000 required to lay a smooth surface, for eighteen months the city at that time will take up the note. It is understood that the individual cost to the property owners would be about $30. The proposal was considered favorably by those present last night and it is understood that all of those present signed the agreement. As 95 per cent. of the property holders must agree to the proposition before it is considered binding, a committee will present the matter to property-holders not present last night. Owing to the fact that the residents have been urging the paving of the street as soon as possible, it is believed that the proposal will be accepted, since it will do away with the red dust in summer and the red mud in winter which has been a source of annoyance ever since that section began to be built up.

Anxiety to have the work done this year is apparent, it being stated that it would cost the contractors now doing street work in Danville at least six thousand dollars to move their plant back to this city when once they left. The desire is to have the work done while the road force and the machinery is still here.

Women Principals Decline To Sign

Efforts are to be made this afternoon by a committee to bring about reconsideration by Mrs A. J. Grady, principal of Bellevue school, and Mrs Lily Walton, principal of Stonewall Jackson school, of their plan to give up their positions Both principals, who succeeded admirably in their executive fields, have abstained from signing contracts for the coming year. Mrs Walton never signed her contract, informing a member of the Board of Trustees that she proposed to enter another line of work while Mrs Grady, who did sign her contract, did so under a misapprehension and has since asked to be relieved of responsibility This was done and the contract was destroyed. Now, however, elements are at work in order to bring about their acceptance of the terms offered by the schoolboard

It is an open secret that the action of the school board is making both Mesdames Walton and Grady assistant principals under F. H Wheatley in North Danville, was resented by them and it is this, it is generally believed, which is responsible for their failure to sign the contracts for the coming year.

STEAM AND ELECTRIC POWER IN CONFLICT

This is what happened when a Tidewater street car of the Birmingha mRailway, Light and Power Company and a freight train of the Alabama Great outhern crashed at the Grand avenus and Fifty-fourth street crossing in Birmingham, Ala.

The regular railroad train, as will be seen, did not have altogether the better of the encounter

The electric car was broken in two, but the locomotive also was toppled over, as was a section of the freight train itself.

Of those on the street car nobody was killed outright and only 30 persons were injured, a considerable number, but not so many considering the completeness of the wreck and the fact that the car was crowded with passengers at the time of the accident.

Fails to Give Name Of Jewel Thieves

Mrs. Robertson Unable to Expose Person or Persons Who Made Raid—Defense Rests It Case.

FREEHOLD, N. J., May 31.—Mrs Sarah L. Robertson today did not make good her boast she would denounce from the witness stand "the person who stole my jewelry"

The wealthy defendant was the chief witness called for the defense, which rested at 1:45 p m The case will go to the jury this afternoon.

Mrs Robertson is accused of having "framed up" the robbery of her gems at her Deal Beach cottage on February 18. At that time a "bandit" held up a dinner party and was declared to have escaped with a fortune in jewels. Later she claimed $55,000 insurance from Lloyds of London. Her arrest followed.

David S Meyer was a dinner guest upon that hectic evening. Efforts have been made by the defense during this trial to prove Meyer, after the alleged robbery, said: "I don't know what to do with Mrs. Robertson's jewelry" One unhappy looking witness testified to that effect. This witness was Frank W. Dent, a painted of Long Branch.

Sensation Falls Flat.

When the more or less beautiful prisoner was placed upon the stand today for further cross-examination, Prosecutor Charles F. Sexton demanded: "Do you say Mr Meyer got your jewelry?"

The witness bit her lip and hesitated She was forced to answer. Now was the time for the proposed sensation. It fell flat.

"How do I know?" She replied.

"Who has your jewelry?"

"I don't know who got it"

"Did Mr. Meyer get it?"

"I don't claim Mr Meyer got it"

"Do you accuse Mr Meyer of the theft?"

"Certainly not I have no proof of it. I don't accuse Mr Meyer of it."

Mr Sexton then cautioned her to tell the truth

"I am under oath and won't tell a story," Mrs. Robertson snapped back

For some reason laughter was heard in the courtroom.

Asked whether it was true as testified by John Baily, the self confessed "bandit" that she had nodded a signal to him she sighed and said. "Oh, no"

She denied also that she had asked Detective Luisi, representing Lloyds, whether Prosecutor Sexton would withdraw the case if she told where the "stolen" jewels were.

She also denied that Luisi had told this to the Prosecutor in her presence or that Prosecutor Sexton had told her he could make no such promise but under the circumstances he would tell the court in event of sentence

These conversations according to the Prosecutor, occurred in his presence at the Coleman House, Asbury Park, four days after the alleged robbery.

Mrs Robertson also flatly contradicted testimony of Detective Luisi, who has said he telephoned his employers that Mrs. Robertson had confessed.

"Mr Luisi telephoned I had not confessed," she said. Her examination resulted in a number of contradictions of everything previous witnesses had testified to that injured her defense

Then some pointed questions were asked by the Prosecutor about the loss of jewels at Columbus Ohio on Sept. 13, 1920, when Mrs Robertson collected $10,750 insurance Judge Rulif V. Lawrence ruled this out and ordered the jury to disregard it

She was positive the handbag alleged to have been stolen at Deal Beach contained her jewels when taken by the robber. Her memory of the events of the exciting night of the robbery apparently was very vivid, but under questioning of Judge Lawrence she could not recall clearly what she had for dinner, although she had prepared the meal herself Later she did recall something about it

Asked whether it was true as testified by the bandit himself that she had nodded a signal to him she sighed and said "Oh no"

On Saturday Mrs Robertson had declared she did not know where Miss Olive Robinson was Miss Robinson was a guest at dinner during the holdup Today Prosecutor Sexton asked "Did you call on New York yesterday and leave a message for Miss Robinson to 'blow,' as you were going to be arrested?"

"I certainly did not"

William Andrews taxi driver of Long Branch the next witness testified that on the day of Mrs Robertson's arrest he saw Meyer go into her home at Deal Mrs Robertson has claimed her house was ransacked after her arrest and a diamond horseshoe pin and some papers stolen

Then Joseph Morgan, through whose firm Mrs. Robertson had insured her jewelry, was recalled concerning the alleged confession of Mrs Robertson. He said Luisi had merely expressed the belief that he could have obtained a confession from Mrs. Robertson if a telephone conversation had not interrupted him.

Death Takes Hand of Grandfather and Ends Child's Laugh

NEW YORK, May 31.—The platform of the Bridge street, Brooklyn station of the Myrtle avenue "L" was crowded at 8 o'clock last night when an aged man, clasping the hand of a boy about three years old, emerged from the waiting room. As the boy laughed and pointed to his antics of another child with a balloon, the aged man dropped, then fell to the platform dragging the boy with him.

When Dr. Whitman arrived from Cumberland street hospital he said the man had died of heart disease The body was taken to the Morgue The boy was taken to the Popular street police station and later sent to the Children's Society rooms.

The dead man was about sixty years old. He was wearing a brown suit, tan shoes, green and red striped tie and straw hat. A black tag carried by him contained a change of clothing for the boy and a cord on which was printed "Wilson Line, Wilmington, Del." The boy was unable to say who he was but said the dead man was his grandfather.

Two Suits Are Filed In Corporation Court

Memorandum of two suits has been filed in the office of the clerk of the Corporation court, Martha Jones, a colored woman, asking for $3,000 from the Danville Traction and Power Company for a mishap which occurred last fall when, it is claimed, the plaintiff was hurt in a fall from a street car.

The St. Paul Fire Insurance Company has instituted an action in detinue against W. M. Snead for an automobile valued at $500, with $100 damages, this being the machine, it is said, which was recently identified here and which was removed from Floyd street soon thereafter and which, according to the police, has not been recovered.

LONG DORMANT CRATERS IN STATE OF GREAT ACTIVITY

HONOLULU, T. H., May 31.—The unusual volcanic activity in the region of Kilauea on the island of Hawaii which yesterday stirred long dormant craters to fresh activity, continued today to manifest itself in eruptions from other pits in that area

The old craters of Napau and Panau are erupting steam and smoke and emitting a hissing sound as the lava rises against the walls of the pits burning the vegetation that has grown there in the years since their last activity The inner walls of the craters today were masses of flame

Napau and Panau are four and three miles, respectively, from the old crater of Makoupuhi, which yesterday roused itself from eighty-two years of slumber in a spectacular outburst Today the lava flow had broken out in a series of molten fountains which were pouring fiery sprays into the old pit

The Panau pit is said to resemble the disturbance of 1919 when a stream of lava plunged down the side of the cone three miles to the sea The incient craters of Puuhuluhulu and Alae also show signs of activity according to Professor Thomas A. Jaggar, director of the United States volcano observatory on the island of Hawaii

Sergeant York Rid Of the Spectre Of Debt By Gift Of Deed To Farm

CHATTANOOGA Tenn May 31.—A big load [illegible] off the mind of Sergt Alvin York, the Tennessee mountaineer whose exploits in the Argonne, where he captured single handed a battalion of German [illegible] the title of the greatest hero of the World War, from [illegible]

The deed to his [illegible]-acre farm on Wolf River [illegible] County near Pall Mall was presented to him today. It came to him every penny paid for. The presentation was made by [illegible] of the York Fund

When York returned to America in 1919 he refused offers to appear on the stage or in the movies and commercialize what he termed "an act of God," announcing his determination to devote [illegible] to the education of his people

When he arrived in Tennessee the Nashville Rotarians started a subscription to purchase a farm for him, near Pall Mall They raised several thousand dollars and bought the farm leaving $13,000 unpaid The Sergeant it was thought, would be able to pay off the remainder through crops he would raise. He married and in due course, Alvin Jr. arrived

The drought of 1921 hurt his crop and the price deflation reduced its money yield. A mortgage payment was due in the fall it looked like York would face foreclosure.

The Nashville Rotarians again began active and money was raised not only to pay the installment but to clear off the entire indebtedness The Argonne hero's plight was first told to the American public by The World

The deed presented to the Sergeant recited, in addition to the usual land description, the [illegible] York had received for his Argonne valor, which include the [illegible], Medal of Honor and the Croix de Guerre

Herbert Barnett Now Financier

The following article taken from the New York World regarding Herbert Barnett, the Roxboro, N C, midget who with his brother, Jack, is well known in Danville, will be read here with interest:

"He's the biggest man in Roxboro, N. C., and he's the smallest. In fact he's one of the smallest men that ever lived. One thing is certain, he's the richest smallest man in the world today, is Herbert Barnett, 33 years old

"Herbert stands about 37 inches high, weighs 60 pounds, owns one of the largest lumber mills in the south, has a trucking business, is a stockholder in several companies and an all-round good fellow

"He came here on business, but combined his duties with pleasure, so he is spending a couple of extra days meeting some of his old friends in the circus, now in full swing at Madison Square Garden.

"The reporter who was introduced to Mr Barnett yesterday almost got in wrong at the start. 'Did you join the circus?' he asked.

"'Buddie, I'm through as a trouper. Some day I might get back in this game, but I'm going to be the owner. I've served my time as a performer'

"'They'll think I'm one of your strange people, Richard,' said the little man to Mr Ringling 'Guess I'll move out of the way. By the way I just bought six automobile trucks, can't you use your influence to have them shipped at an early date,' the midget inquired of the reporter.

"A big limousine rolled up in front of the Garden. A man in brass-buttoned uniform got out and walked inside.

"'Your car is waiting, sir,' said the chauffeur to the midget

"'I'll be right out,' reported the small man"

Gets Usual Penalty For Having Whisky

Tom Haymes, colored admitted possession of about six gallons of whisky found on his premises several days ago, and was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail. An appeal was noted by Haymes' counsel in order that the negro might straighten up his business affairs before beginning his term. A bond of $250 was given A similar warrant against Rosa Neal, mother of Haymes, was dismissed. Haymes admitted that the whisky was his, but stated that it was there for his own personal use and not for sale. Efforts were made to have the sentence suspended on these grounds, but the court held that such a quantity of whisky should not have been there and that the sentence would not be suspended under any circumstances. It was then that the appeal was noted, although it is not expected that the case will go to the Corporation court, this action being taken merely to give the negro time to take care of his business and get someone to run his store below the depot until he is released. A little over one gallon of whisky was found in Haymes' house and about five gallons found buried in the yard.

W. R. Davis was fined $10 and costs for violating the Mapp Act. He was arrested by Police Officer O. W. Bates in a store on lower Main street. The liquor was not found on Davis' person, but had been seen in his pocket by the officer before he went into the store and threw it down beside a box. Bates stated that he did not see him place it there, but had seen the battle in his pocket when he got out of his automobile.

A. B Dixon was fined $16.95 for speeding.

Luther Lane was fined $6.95 for operating a car without the proper license tags. He had only one, whereas the law requires two.

Alec Wilson, fined $8.45 for running car without proper license tags.

Roy Cousins Held In Cutting Affray

An aftermath to a cutting affray which occurred a year ago on Union street, resulted in Clarence Cousins being cut to death by L. J. Smith, developed several days ago in Draper, when Roy Cousins, brother of the dead youth, attacked Smith, in an alleged act of vengeance, dangerously wounding him by slashing him with a knife.

Cousins was arrested here yesterday by Police Officer W. S. Edwards as a fugitive from justice from Draper, where he is wanted on the charge of feloniously cutting Smith. Cousins had been in Danville for several days and has been seen by various officers but it was not known until Sunday that he was wanted in North Carolina. On Sunday morning Sergeant J. L. Edwards received a message from Draper informing him af the cutting affray and asking him that a close watch be kept for Cousins. Sergeant Edwards notified all the offcers and on yesterday he was seen and arrested.

Details of the newest scrape are not known but Cousins is said to have attacked Smith and cut him purely as an act to avenge his brother. Clarence, who died from wounds inflicted by Smith during a fight which occurred on Union street about a year ago. Clarence Cousins succumbed to his wounds several days after the cutting. Smith was placed on trial in the corporation court and was acquitted of the charge, after the evidence showed that he wielded the knife in self defense. Roy Cousins is being held pending the arrival of authorities from North Carolina when he will be taken to Draper to face trial. Smith is said to be desperately wounded

LIONS CLUB HOLD WEEKLY MEETING

The weekly luncheon of the Lions Club was held yesterday at 1 o'clock at Hotel Burton, Judge E. H Harvey, president of the organization, being able to be present for the first time.

The program for the day was the consideration of the constitution and by-laws written and compiled by a sub-committee of the executive committee. These were based on the constitution and by-laws, prepared by the International executive committee in Chicago, with a few slight changes made to fit local conditions. After a brief discussion a motion was passed that the constitution and by-laws should be printed and placed in the hands of each member and action on adoption should be taken at the next meeting.

Because of the business program of the meeting there were no entertainment features in the program. However there was a splendid menu to which the members did full justice.

Liquor Hidden Under Waters Of Dan By 'Leggers

Many a novel hiding place for booze has been found, but the river bed of the Dan is the latest secret place resorted to by some unknown bootlegger to hide his supply of corn liquor, and it was Sergeant J. H. Martin and Patrolman Foster Harris who made the discovery. Ten gallons of "white lightning" in two five gallon tin cans were found yesterday morning about 2.30 o'clock under several feet of water in the river just above the concrete bridge by the two above-mentioned officers.

Sergeant Martin had reason to suspect although he had not seen anyone hide any whiskey or anything else in that particular spot but the movements of certain men left no doubt in his mind that there was a hiding place somewhere in that territory but where it was, officers had been unable to ascertain.

Sergeant Martin shortly after midnight with Harris went to the scene. They secured a small row boat and while Harris did the cruising, Sergeant Martin had a long pole jobbing it into the water until it reached the river bottom. At a spot several feet away from the bank of the river, the officers felt the end of the pole when it lodged against something which could not be moved. On investigating the two five gallon tin cans were brought forth from beneath the water. Examination of these showed that instead of them containing the muddy water of Dan River they were filled with moonshine whiskey, clear as a crystal. The officers put the whiskey aboard the boat, rowed to the shore and unloaded it. In a short time they had carried the booze to police headquarters and were relating the incident to fellow officers.

Tuesday morning at 11, the graduating exercises will take place with the address to the graduating class and the announcements of honors and prizes. The afternoon is given over to a social program and the evening to the final exercises of the class of 1922.

More than usual interest on the part of the students and alumni is being manifested and a large attendance is expected.

WOMEN HELP SLEUTHS RAID NEW YORK RESORTS

NEW YORK May 31.—The woman bootlegger now has her rival in the woman prohibition agent. Anyhow two women aided prohibition agents in raiding four Long Island resorts by dressing up in their evening best and accompanying the booze sleuths on a round of the fashionable inns.

The prohibition agents were also in evening clothes. One of their women aids was known as the "princess" and the other as the "countess." At each of the inns visited one of the fashionable-looking quartet ordered liquor. They got it, poured it carefully into a bottle as "evidence." Act two will be in court where four proprietors and two head waiters must explain.

—Miss Margaret Conway, who has been visiting in Richmond, has returned home.

Does Your Suit please HER?

A Man owes it to his friends and to himself to dress Well. Your wife, mother, father or brother are prouder of you when you are well dressed. Your sweetheart prefers it, and your boss, maybe, is kept back from advancing you, because you don't "look the part."

Try dressing better and see if it doesn't PAY YOU.

We've got the good clothes for you from head to foot, to fit your body and your pocketbook.

Wear our good, "Nifty" clothes.

Final Exercises At Chatham T. S.

The closing exercises for commencement Tuesday evening were well attended by relatives and friends of the graduating class of 1922 which numbered 22 students. Invocation by Dr Shelburne. Dr J M Shelburne, pastor of the First Baptist church, Danville delivered the commencement address. It was a practical literary masterpiece. His subject was "Intelligent Choice." He said "Development of personality depends upon what we do. We have come to the time when we are morally responsible to all. The people of today must have a big view of the world. The trouble is the natural inertia on the part of most folks. Have in your heart a will to do something, a memory to retain the right experience in life and a need for truth—willingness to know as we are!"

Rev. M. F Sanford presented the certificates to those who had completed their course in Bible.

Hon J. M Hooker, who has a son at the institution, was present at the exercises and presented the scholarship medal to A R Carter of Pittsylvania county. Congressman Hooker before making the presentation speech delighted the audience with several jokes at which he is most gifted and the large audience accepted his presence as though he were Pittsylvania's native son, who is now our Congressman.

As usual Mr Hooker presented the medal in a pleasing manner, and said that the rewards in this life come to those who work and serve and that the value was not so much in the prize but the true worth to the contestants was the strength of mind and character that it develops in winning the prize.

Dr Shelburne presented the improvement medal to W. R. Smith of Bedford county.

President A. H. Camden after presenting the diplomas gave a brief summary of the year's work. He said the closing of '22 was the best prepared scholastically of any class in the history of the school as well as the most successful year. Benediction was made by Rev Camden.

The following are the graduates:

Charlie Pruden Anderson, News Ferry. Ralph Vinyard Bell, Salem; Aubrey Richardson Carter, Dry Fork. Samuel Lewis Creath, Paces. Alfred Berkwood Farmer, Ringgold. Virgil Hamlin Goode, Henry. FLOODS CAUSING MORE TROUBLE

NEW ORLEANS, May 31.—Backwater from the high tide of Breton Island sound and the crevasse in the Mississippi river levee at Poydras, 12 miles below New Orleans on the east bank of the stream, was flowing six feet deep tonight through a hundred foot break in the protection at Harlem plantation, near Point-Alahache, about forty miles down the river from here. The levee gave way late today.

Approximately ten square miles of lands between Harlem plantation and Neston Louisiana, will be inundated, according to levee engineers. About 200 persons live in the affected area.

FUNERAL OF JERRY WHITE

The funeral of Jerry White was conducted from the residence on E. Patton St yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Dr H W DuBose of the First Presbyterian Church. The esteem in which the deceased was held by those who knew him was shown by the large gathering and the many beautiful floral designs.

Members of the Ku Klux Klan made their appearance at the cemetery where they placed a fiery cross on the casket and with its signs soon departed. Morotock Lodge then took charge and he was buried with Masonic honors.

The pall bearers were: J. P Clayton, J. A. Dix, Fred Farley, A. C. Franklin, C A Raine, Jr., H B. McCormick, Geo. Ross, T C Oakley. The flower bearers were: Doran Jones, Edgar Milstead, E F. Reide, Charlie Milstead, Will Talbott, Edward Swartz, Struyfield Wells, T. C McClelland, Joe Thomas, Luther Powdexter, J E. Copeland, John Brown, P D. Newman, S. Berman and others.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WHITE TO BE HELD TODAY

The funeral of Mrs. C W. White will be held this afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Alice R Baines, 209 Mount Vernon avenue at 5 o'clock, the services to be conducted by Rev. J. N. Lathan and Dr. James M. Shelburne. Interments will be in Greenhill cemetery.

D. S. Class Night Exercises Are Well Attended

The Class Night exercises of the graduating class of the Danville high school were held last night in the High school auditorium, the building being packed with undergraduates, fathers mothers and friends. The program was entirely in the hands of the graduating class and was interesting throughout. In addition to the Class Night exercises prizes were awarded and monograms were delivered to the High school athletes.

The senior oration was delivered by William Sublett, who contested in the State meet at Charlottesville. The speaker delivered a splendid address, the subject matter and presentation commending the speech and orator in the audience.

There followed a piano solo by Miss Jane Riddle, a reading by Miss Frances Boisseau, a vocal solo by Miss Esther Rosenburg, the reading of the senior essay and a piano solo by Miss Anne Thomas.

The scholarships were delivered by Principal Sidney B Hall. The winners were as follows: Washington and Lee Redford Alvis. University of Virginia William Sublett; William and Mary, Miss Josephine Tucker.

The monograms to the various athletic teams of the school were delivered by Mr. Patterson, former assistant principal of the High school.

The senior class essay prize, given by Miss Charles Anthony, of the English department, was won by Miss Lucy Morgan.

The U. D. C. Prize was won by Miss Jennie Berman, the subject of whose essay was, "Women of the South in War Times." The D. A. R. prize was won by Miss Annie May Reynolds. Both of these prizes were five dollar gold pieces.

An interesting feature of the proceedings was the delivery of a class gift to Miss Charles Anthony teacher of English. The senior class also presented to the High School a stage curtain.

President Samuel T Martin, better known as "Dick," handled the gavel during the evening's proceedings and under his guidance the schedule of events moved off with grace and precision.

Tonight the final exercises of the High School will be held. J. N. Hillman, secretary of the State Board of Education, will deliver the address to the graduates. The diplomas will be presented by Sidney B Hall, principal of the High School, who will also preside during the evening.

BACCALAUREATE SERMON CHATHAM TRAINING SCHOOL

CHATHAM, Va., May 29.—Rev. I. T. Jacobs, pastor of Belmont Baptist Church, Roanoke, Va., delivered the annual baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Chatham Training School, Sunday morning at the First Baptist Church. A large audience was present at the services. A special musical program was rendered by the church choir. Rev. Jacobs chose his text from I Cor. 9-24. His theme, "How to make life a success." His speech contained fine subject matter, which he ably and admirably presented to the 22 seniors and the rest of the audience, who listened attentively to his message.

The annual debators contest was held Saturday evening in the new auditorium of the school. The query, "Resolved, That the State of Virginia Should Issue Bonds to the Amount of $12,000,000.00 for the Improvement of Her Roads." The judges, C. O. McCormick, W. M Tredway, Rev. I. T. Jacobs, declared G. Ryland Hudgens, of Buckingham county, the winner.

The rest of the program follows. Reading: Miss Whitehead. Presentation of debator's medal to G. R. Hudgens by Attorney C. O. McCormick.

J. W. Marks presented the W. C. T. U. pries to the following winners: Senior and Junior English to Hubert Bennett, Chatham, Va. DOVE—GUSLER

A marriage of interest to friends of the young couple took place last night at 8.30 o'clock when Miss Tessie E. Gusler became the bride of Walter V. Dove, both of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. V. G. Smith in the presence of a few friends of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Dove will make Danville their home.

—The condition of Mrs. W. T. East on East Lee street is reported as about the same.

AN EGG WITHIN AN EGG FOUND

Lots of prize stories have emanated from the little town of Chatham, eccentric stories of one thing and another, and lots of 'em good enough to go into Scoop's column, but this story is concentric as will be seen.

It is the open season for chicken stories, both with and without feathers. The bathing season opens soon and lots of them will come from the beach. This story, however, happens to pertain to the feathered tribe and relates particularly to the effect rather than the cause—and there is no doubt but that the chicken is the cause of the egg, though some hold otherwise.

There is being exhibited over in Chatham an egg within an egg and if the senses do not deceive there is no fake about it. Whether the hen that laid the egg was occupied with some involved thinking, ideas within ideas, when she engendered this sporting freak is a matter of conjecture. It is probable, at least that she was an absent-minded hen and had overlooked the fact that she already had evolved an egg, ready to be deposited in the excelsior-lined box in the chicken-house, and just went ahead and involved that same egg in another one of perfect proportions, but of larged dimensions.

There are many large eggs laid but this one had a peculiar feel as the inside egg shifted about, changing unduly the center of gravity. So the person who broke it exercised a modicum of care.

A hole the size of a dime was made, the yelk and albumen were removed from the larger egg—and there was the smaller egg (about the same size as a normal egg). It had a hard shell, and it is presumed that if it were broken it would have the usual substances that go to make up the inside of an egg—that is fresh. There is always a slight change to be expected if there is any undue delay in breaking the egg.

Those who are given to conjecture might go ahead and consider what might have happened, if this same egg had been incubated. The embryo of the outside chick would probably have had difficulty in occupying with ease its unusual pre-natal quarters while the inside chick would have undoubtedly have suffered from lack of ventilation and probably would never have been a fresh air fiend.

WILL TAKE BRIDE TO LIVE ON FARM AND RAISE PIGS

CHICAGO, May 31.—Stanislaw Szukalski, the New York sculptor who came to Chicago to marry Miss Helen Walker, artist, daughter of Dr Samuel J. Walker, prominent in society here, said today he was going to take his bride to live on a farm and raise pigs.

"Sculpturing isn't very profitable, but those who raise pigs make a lot of money," he said. Szukalski took out a marriage license to wed Miss Walker today. Miss Walker said their plans would be announced Friday.

Various Union Organizations Are Asked To Meet

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—Telegrams asking the grand chiefs of the sixteen railroad brotherhoods and executives of other union organizations to meet in Cincinnati next week to consider matters affecting the common welfare of 2,000,000 railroad workers were sent out from here today, it was announced by Edward H. Fitzgerald, grand president of the brotherhood of railway clerks, freight handlers and station and express employes.

The brotherhood chiefs are being asked if next Tuesday will be acceptable date for the conference. Mr. Fitzgerald said that it was at first planned to hold the meeting in Chicago Friday. Telegrams were exchanged today with various brotherhood and union leader, Mr. Fitzgerald said, but announced as to the final decision will not be made until tomorrow. However, he said, that in all probability the meeting will be held in Cincinnati Tuesday.

According to Mr. Fitzgerald some forty brotherhood, union and labor executives are expected to take part in the conference. "It will be the first gathering of its kind ever held in the history of organized labor," Mr Fitzgerald said. He stated that the object of the conference was to discuss matters vital to the common welfare of all railroad workers.

It is expected that a course of action with regard to reduction in wages of railroad workers recently made and contemplated by the railway labor board will be decided on, but that is a matter that will be developed at the meeting it was said.

PROBE OF FRAUD CASES BEGINS

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(By the Associated Press)—Investigation of the so-called war frauds cases began today before a special federal grand jury when United States Attorney Gordon presented at the first of the government's series of cases dealing with wartime contracts, that in the disposal of surplus lumber by the Quartermaster corps of the United States army.

Without a recess intervening, the grand jury, empanneled under a recent act of Congress, sat for four hours, the deliberations being accompanied by the secrecy usually surrounding such proceedings.

Extraordinary precautions were taken to prevent leaks. Attorney General Daugherty announced that at no time during the progress of the grand jury investigation would he divulge information concerning its activities nor the names of the cases presented, and District Attorney Gordon declared that all officials connected with the inquiry were sworn to secrecy and that he could not say what case would be the first on which the government would ask indictments.

One of the first acts of the grand jury was to subpoena all available papers and records bearing on the lumber cases. Witnesses were on hand to testify, but their names were withheld.

SUCH PAINS AS THIS WOMAN HAD

Two Months Could Not Turn in Bed. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Finally Restored Health

Seattle, Washington.—"I had dragging pains first and could not stand on my feet, then I had chills and fever and such pains in my right side and a hard lump there. I could not turn myself in bed and could not sleep. I was this way for over two months, trying everything any one told me, until my sister brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until all the hard pains had left me and I was able to be up and to do my work again. The hard lump left my side and I feel splendid in all ways. I know of many women it has helped."—Mrs. G. RICHARDSON, 4640 Orcas St., Seattle, Washington.

This is another case where Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought results after "trying everything any one told me" had failed.

If you are suffering from pain, nervousness and are always tired; if you are low spirited and good for nothing, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. You may not only relieve the present distress, but prevent the development of more serious trouble.

Leaders In House Off War Inquiry

[illegible]ned to Let Johnson and Woodruff Run Own Course Without Much Help.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—House leaders are inclined today to keep hands off if Representatives Johnson (Rep., S. D.) and Woodruff (Rep., Mich.) decide to make their investigation of war contracts through the Committee of Expenditures in the War Department, of which Mr. Johnson is chairman.

Speaker Gillett, who has refused twice to recognize Representative Johnson to make a motion that would bring up the Woodruff resolution, indicated today that he would be satisfied with the new course suggested, while Chairman Madden of the War Department Committee had very broad powers.

Johnson and Woodruff, however, are not going to take the suggested new step until they have exhausted the other plan. Notice has been served on members of the House that Mr Johnson tomorrow once more wil seek to get a select committee to act. It will be the last chance before the Rules Committee meets on Thursday to reconsider the vote of 6 to 5 by which a few days ago it declared for the special investigation tribunal. Members once more will be put on record as to whether they favor a genuine revelation of transactions within the Department of Justice in the last fourteen months.

One of the handicaps the War Department Committee may have, if it makes the investigation, will be insufficient authority to administer oaths. It also would be limited in the extent it might go into the affairs of the Department of Justice. So far as the department had anything to do the war contracts, that for the committee can go, in the opinion of parliamentarians.

This would lead to an investigation of some of the activities of the Deparment of Justice, but not to the broad extent desired.

Still Is Raided and Man Under Arrest

LYNCHBURG, Va., May 31.—John L Dirting, A. A. May and John S Hash, Feneral prohibition agents assisted by the sheriff of Bath county, Monday raided a still west of Hot Springs, in the Alleghany mountains, and arrested W. W. Kelly at the still, who was held in bond of $2,000 to answer the second offense of violating the prohibition law.

Kelly had a rifle and a German luger with him at the time, and, apparently, according to the raiders, he tried to draw his gun but Agent Dirting was too quick for him. He was taken to Warm Springs, where he was held for the Bath county jury.

A large still and 2,000 gallons of "beer" were captured.

Kelly served six months and paid $500 fine for the first offense some time ago at which time he is alleged to have pulled a gun on Federal Agent J. N. Wood of this place.

Rubber Cannon Ball Fired in Parade, May Cost Captain an Eye

NEW YORK, June 1.—Thomas Curry, sixty-six, rugged captain of a grain barge, may lose the sight of his left eye as the result of a little too much realism in the Memorial Day parade in Hoboken yesterday.

Curry was watching the parade from the curb at 11th and Washington streets, when the Tobb Shipyard float came along firing rubber balls from an imagination naval gun. The balls weighed a pound and a half each, and one of them hit Curry on the eye, knocking him down.

As Curry fell a swarm of boys trampled him, intent only on capturing the ball. The Captain suffered other injuries that may prove serious. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

ATTORNEY SEEKS LIBETY

NEW YORK, May 31.—Severin E De Angelis, an up-State attorney, who was committed to the hospital for the Criminally Insane at Manhattan 12 years ago, today obtained his first writ of habeas corpus in two years, on a plea to Supreme Court Justice Guy.

De Angelis long ago broke the record of Harry K. Thaw in appeals for liberty on writs of habeas corpus. But, whereas Thaw finally was successful, De Angelis has been returned to Manhattan after each of the investigations instituted at his request.

In a petition carefully prepared in script and addressed to Justice Guy De Anggelis explained his silence of the last two years by saying he has been seeking Federal intervention. He has not given up hope for liberty from this source, he says, although "never having had experience with Federal practice, I have not been able to prepare papers complying with the technical exactions of Judges for whose consideration they have been submitted."

Girl Shoots Self While Mother and Fiance Stand Near

WASHINGTON, June 1.—With her mother and fiance looking on, Miss Deme Passe, 29-year-old government clerk and cousin of a Tennessee congressman, Monday night fired a pistol bullet into her breast, from which she died an hour later at the Emergency hospital.

She was rushed to the hospital where it was found that she had a bare change through blood transfusion. Sergious Kaneritcny, whom the young woman was to have married, immediately offered himself for the operation. The transfusion was made, but she died within a few minutes.

Miss Passe, who had been employed in the bureau of public roads, suffered a nervous breakdown about a month ago, and has been under treatment at her home since that time.

Monday her mother, Mrs. Roberta Passe, and Kaneritchny were sitting beside her bed. The girl suddenly reached for the pistol and, before the others knew what was happening, fider the shot. The bullet puncturd the right lung and took a downward course. She los consciousness immediately and never regained it.

Miss Passe with her mother lived at 1335 L street northwest, and her fiance only a few doors from her at 1339 L street. She came to Washington ten years ago from Memphis Tenn.

Crop Conditions In Old Dominion

RICHMOND, Va., May 31.—Moderate temperature prevailed until near the close of the week when it was cooler. Sunshine was adequate and moisture sufficient except in some northwestern counties where more rain is needed. Work made good progress, though delayed locally by rains, crops were generally favorably effected, though it was a little too dry in the northwest. Wweat has headed well: there has been some lodging locally due to heavy rainstorms. Cultivation of corn has begun and stands are good and sweet potatoe plants are nearing completion. Cotton stands are good; chopping is well advanced. In the southeast truck crops are excellent and early potatoes will soon be ready for shipment. Stands of peanuts are unusually poor. Meadows and pastures are in good to excellent condition. First cutting of alfalfa and clover have yielded good returns.

Resignation Of Lindeman Accepted

GREENSBORO, N. C., June 1.—The board of directors of the North Carolina College for Women yesterday afternoon accepted the resignation of Dr E C Lindeman, head of the department of sociology and economics, with the formal statement that "inasmuch as the question has been raised as to whether or not some secret organization had anything to do with his resignation, the board desires to state very emphatically that it had nothing whatever to do with Professor Lindeman's resignation or its acceptance."

The "secret organization" referred to is the Ku Klux Klan.

Dr Lindeman's resignation was tendered to President Julius I Foust April 4 and has been held since by the president pending a meeting of the board of trustees. Prior to the resignation a letter signed by the Ku Klux Klan suggesting that the college should request Dr. Lindeman to leave for the following reasons:

"1.—Because he is an athiest.

"2.—Because he is a socialist.

"3.—Because he is and has been unconvential or indiscreet in the class room.

"4.—Because he or some member of his family permitted his negro cook to entertain a number of her friends in the Lindeman home."

Only Two May Visit Gandhi In 3 Months

WASHINGTON, May 31.—According to a report made public today by the American Commission to Promote Self-Government in India, Mohandas K. Kandhi, India's national leader, recently sentenced to six years' imprisonment, has been treated with less consideration than is usually shown criminal prisoners.

Gandhi is incarcerated in the Yeravda jail, near Poona. The superintendent of the British prison has ruled that he can receive not more than two visitors every three months. In April his son, Devadass, and C. Rajagopalachariar visited the jail. The latter says Gandhi has a diet of bread and goat's milk, with two oranges daily. The superintendent promised to add raisins. The supply of goat's milk for the day is served at one time, and must be consumed promptly or it spoils in the intense heat.

Gandhi is not allowed a pillow, according to his two visitors, the superintendent declaring that is a luxury. He is not allowed to have newspapers or any of his own books, not even strictly religious works. He is kept in a solitary confinement cell and locked in during the night. The cell has ventilators and a veranda, with an area in the yard marked off for walking.

The report says Gandhi did not seem to be in good health, though the jailer said he had gained in weight.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—adv.

Ford Will Fight For Muscle Shoals

Announces Intention of Trying to Save Property for Public's Benefit—Rejects Counter Offer.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Henry Ford's proposal of the House Military Committee for the development of Muscle Shoals was presented to the committee today. This definitely rejected the provision which eliminated the steam plant at Gorgas, Alabama from properties to be disposed of by the government. If Congress votes acceptance of the offer, Ford stated, he would be on the job immediately, but if rejected it would be but the beginning of a determined effort on his part to save Muscle Shoals for the public's benefit.

CONVICTED SLAYER PINS HOPE FOR LIFE UPON RUBBER BOOTS

HERKIMER, N. Y., May 31.—Upon a pair of rubber boots, Rutger Warder, awaiting execution at Sing Sing prison for the murder of Herny Werner, here, in February, 1921 bases his hope of escaping the electric chair. Attorneys for the condemned man here announced that they will appeal for another trial on the ground of new-discovered evidence in the form of rubber boots.

After the discovery of Werner's body in a ravine, suspicion was directed to Warder and the dead man's widow. Under pressure of questioning Warder declared that he was in love with Mrs. Werner and that as she would not leave her husband he shot Werner while on a rabbit hunting trip. After Warder's conviction Mrs Werner was placed on trial and Warder, a witness at the trial, changed his story, saying that Mrs. Werner killed her husband with an axe and that he helped her to carry the body to the place where it was later found. In order to hide the axe wound, he said, he fired his gun at Werner's head. Warder also testified that when they took away Warner's body, Mrs. Werner put a pair of rubber boots over her shoes.

A few weeks ago Warder was removed from the death house at Sing Sing to the prison hospital, where an operation for appendicitis was performed upon him. He is said to be the first prisoner to be taken from the death house in order that his life might be prolonged by surgery.

Hope For Life Hinges On Pair Of Rubber Boots

HERKIMER, N. Y., May 31.—Upon a pair of rubber boots, Rutger Warder, awaiting execution at Sing Sing prison for the murder of Henry Werner here in February, 1921, bases his hope of escaping the electric chair.

Attorneys for the condemned man here announced that they will appeal for another trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence in the form of rubber boots.

After the discovery of Werner's body in a ravine, suspicion was directed to Warder and the dead man's widow. Under pressure of questioning, Warder declared that he was in love with Mrs. Werner and that, as she would not leave her husband, he shot Werner while on a rabbit-hunting trip.

To hide the ax wound, he said, he fired his gun at Werner's head. Warder also testified that when they took away Werner's body Mrs. Werner put on a pair of rubber boots over her shoes.

According to Warder's lawyers, the rubber boots, that have recently been found, show on the inside the impression of the heel of a woman's shoe.

A few weeks ago Warder was removed from the death house at Sing Sing to the prison hospital, where an operation for appendicitis was performed upon him. He is said to be the first prisoner to be taken from the death house that his life might be prolonged by surgery.

FEDERAL CIVIL SERVICE BODY OLD FASHIONED, EXPERT SAYS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.—The Civil Service Commission is honest, but old fashioned, Herbert D. Brown, chief of the United States Bureau of Efficiency, declared in a 113-typewritten page report transmitted by President Harding today at the House.

"The commission," the report said, "has assumed for many years and still assumes a negative attitude towards its tasks and problems.

"It endeavors to keep out of Government positions incompetent persons. It does not make a sufficient resolute effort to secure positions in the Government for the most competent available persons."

While the commission advertises for help it "does not actively or energetically seek to place the best and only the best in Government positions," the report added, and regarded itself primarily as a brake on bad appointments.

In declaring the commission "somewhat old fashioned," the report held that its work was conducted fundamentally along lines laid down nearly 40 years ago.

It was stated that the commission had not been charged with corruption or with gross incompetence, but that lost most Government establishments of long standing, its methods and proceedings were open for improvement.

BABY CARRIAGE GARAGE TO BE PROVIDED BY LANDLORD

JERSEY CITY, N. J., May 31.—Captain John Swenson's baby carriage garage for his thirty five family flat house at York and Van Vorst street, is almost finished. It is proving a great deal more substantial and ornate, this parking place for perambulators, than most structures which house limousines and expensive touring cars. It is a two-story concrete and hollow-tile affair 18 to 22 feet, and it is costing the captain just $5,000 to erect it.

There are 105 babies in the Swenson flats. The transport facilities required for such a battalion of infants [illegible] Some of them were parked in the hallways until recently a tenement house inspector came around and notified Captain Swenson that they would have to be cleared out.

The stairway was arranged for them but again the inspector interferred. He said it must be kept clear. Then came the idea to the captain, an old seafaring man of a baby carriage garage. The following day he bought the four-story brick house next door for $8,500. The building of the garage brings the total outlay for the 'cap's infantile tenants' up to $13,500, but space in the garage is to be free.

Mute Finds Speech In Airplane; Boy, Six, Will Be Tutored Aloft

ATLANTIC CITY, May 30.—While a passenger in an airplane 1,000 feet above earth yesterday, William Rosendorf, six, a mute, the son of William Rosendorf, a fur importer uttered his first word. Upon his return the child continued to repeat the word "airplane," which constitutes his vocabulary.

The child, although a mute, can hear perfectly. He was taken to the inlet yesterday by the family chauffeur for an airplane ride. While in the skies the child spoke the word "airplane," astonishing the chauffeur. Today it is the only word which he can pronounce distinctly.

In the hope that altitude may restore speech where medical science has failed, the father, upon hearing of the results of the trip arranged with the pilot to take his son aloft each day for a week for a half hour's treatment. A tutor will accompany him and when 1,000 feet has been reached will speak simple words in the hope that the child may be able to gain control of his vocal organs.

Los Angeles Paper Scores Where Sleuths Fail — Martha Kendall Is Willing to Shed Light On the Murder.

(By The Associated Press.)

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—Martha Kendall, who once filed a suit charging criminal conspiracy against Walter Ward, under bond at White Plains, N. Y., for killing Clarence Peter for alleged blackmail, his been located atHollywood by the Los Angeles Times. "I can throw light upon that mystery," the Times quoted her as saying. "I know a few things that those interested in prosecuting Ward would like to know, I'll tell all if they ask me—not 'till then."

FIND CHICAGO WOMAN SLAIN IN HOUSE OF 1000 MYSTERIES

CHICAGO, May 31.—The nude body of Mrs. Rosie Greenberg, formerly an actress known as Margaret Wandt, was found today in an old lodging-house, which has been termed by neighbors "The House of 1000 Mysteries," because of numerous crimes and unusual happenings there. A rope was wound tightly around her neck and her body showed many bruises. She seemed to have been strangled to death.

Three weeks ago a man committed suicide in the house, while recently the body of a woman was found on the third floor. The police frequently have been called to the house.

There were indications of a struggle in the room in which Mrs. Greenberg's body was found. Torn remnants of her clothing were scattered around.

The house is known as the "Old Thompson Place." For many years it belonged to the family of Mayor Thompson.

What Refinement Means in a Waltham Watch

A Waltham Watch today is the result of doing one thing supremely well for seventy years.

From the first Waltham Watch to this masterful, lovely model (The Colonial "A" No. 264 Washington) the great Waltham organization has been refining the product.

That means making the Waltham movement supreme in dependability and unexcelled in time-telling for a life-time.

This is what we mean by "Refinement." It goes deeper than the case. It is older than today. It is that "something" which is not included in the price, but makes this grand watch worthy of your desire and decision to own it and none other.

Cut out this advertisement. Ask your jeweler to show you the watch it describes. He knows what a great watch it really is.

STATUS OF GREENSBORO ROAD MADE CLEAR.

The Greensboro Daily News today editorially makes quit clear the status of "Road No 70" on the North Carolina highway improvement plan and states that beyond a doubt the hard-surfacing of the road from near Stokesland where the Virginia road ends, will be carried on to Reidsville probably this Summer. The report was current that a few days ago the North Carolina Commissioners took no action on Road No. 70 and this was something of a puzzle and led to a Danville man writing to the North Carolina daily for further information The fact of the matter is that the Commissioners were in no wise obligated to let any contract last week for it was let in April it seems and it is now only a matter of time before the contractor begins

Even more welcome news is given in the article since it indicates that work will be started on a continuation of the road from Reidsville to Greensboro which will thus link up Danville with the Gate City by a hard road passable in all kinds of weather Referring to the recent visit of the chairman of the good roads committee to Raleigh the article says:

"If the Danvillian had inquired while in Raleigh about the status of this road anybody in the commission office would have informed him cheerfully that contract has been let (in April, we believe) for the construction from Reidsville to the Virginia line junction of the hard road from Danville of a standard, hard surface federal aid road. The contractor is presumably likely to begin work any day

"He would also have been informed that the commission's engineers were even then engaged on a survey of the line from Greensboro to Reidsville This survey was completed the day before yesterday, and the field work is now in the Raleigh office awaiting the draughtsmen There is no reason to suppose there will be any considerable delay in letting it very probably we should say, work will begin this summer.

"A drop of a few degrees in temperature one night last winter did it At the time of the second snow a maintenance gang moving northward on Route 70 reached Reidsville at nightfall. The road on this side of Reidsville was cleared, although for a week or so thereafter it was in a condition by no means good During the night the snow froze on the road nroth of Reidsville and conditions never became favorable for its removal in such a way as to save the road The road between there and the Virginia Line became so bad that the authorities decided a soil surface would not serve, but ought to be replaced by concrete as soon as possible This district draws from the new federal fund something less than half enough to build from Reidsville to connect with the hard surface at the Virginia line, which extends on to Danville Route 70 is the distinctive interstate road of the fifth state highway district. Commissioner Cox decided to recommend the expenditure of the entire amount due from Washington on that portion of it north of Reidsville. It is an eminently sensible thing to put the federal money now available on Route 70, because it is an interstate road and one that will immediately develop a heavy traffic of interstate character It will be most convenient for the federal administration for the money to be spent in one place, instead of in driblets here and there"

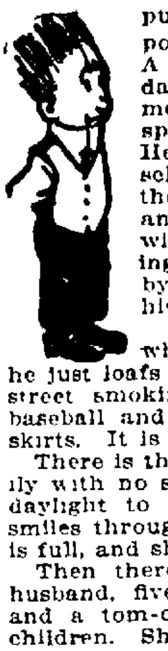
Scoop's Colyum



DRAKES BRANCH, June 1.—(Grapevine Wireless)—Happiness is purely a matter of viewpoint, or mental attitude A man will tear around day after day making money which his wife spends; yet he is happy. He will probably kill himself before he is fifty-five, the widow will marry again and the second husband will have a big time spending the money accumulated by number one. This is his idea of happiness.

Then there is the man who never does anything; he just loafs on the shady side of the street smoking cigarets and talking baseball and watching out for short skirts. It is his idea of happiness

There is the Mother of a large family with no servants, she works from daylight to darkness and sings and smiles through the drudgery, her life is full, and she is happy.

Then there is the woman with a husband, five servants, four poodles, and a tom-cat She does not want children. She plays bridge and snubs her lesser sisters. She is perfectly happy.

But, as a great man told us once, confidentially, every woman's ambition is to be a widow For that sublime state is happiness indeed!

Such is life!

AMAZING to learn, upon authority as sound as that of the clock in the hotel lobby, that the age of the evening was still somewhat short of nine . . . preposterous to credit that lapse of time so little could have wrought the transformation of life's kindly countenance at close of day to its present cast, so bleak, forbidding, and implacable . . .

Lucinda slipped into her sitting room, turned the key, found the switchbox near the door, and in an abrupt blaze of illumination stood, startled beyond speech, face to face with Nelly Marquis

One of Nelly's hands was planted flat against the wall; the other, a begrimed fist, was fumbling at her mouth Those eyes whose haunted beauty had first laid claim to one's humanity were now black pools of pathos in a face whose chalkiness was runneled by tears.

Lucinda started back to the door but the woman plunged down to grovel at her feet.

"Oh, Mrs Druce! I'm all right now, I am, I swear I am! Forgive me, and for God's sake don't turn me out, don't call the police Did I hurt him bad?"

"Desperately," Lucinda replied "Whether he'll live or not we don't know yet."

"You left him that way! O, my God!"

"Are you reproaching me?" Lucinda retorted in amazement—"as if it had been I who shot your husband!"

"My husband!" Nelly shrilled. "It's yours I'm talking about, it's Mr. Druce. It's not knowing how bad I hurt him that's driving me crazy . . . I didn't hardly know who he was while we were fighting . . ." She drove her knuckles against her mouth.

"Lynn got what was coming to him. Lynn never treated any woman so mean, and I guess it was right his punishment should come from me. I ain't a bit sorry, I hope he dies . . . Do you—do you think he will?"

To the implicit hope that gave vaunted impenitence the lie, Lucinda returned, in a low tone and against her wish, the one word, "Probably . . ."

"I don't care," Nelly wailed. "It was Mr. Druce I came here to find out about. Please tell me how bad he's hurt?"

"Not much—a flesh wound in the arm—"

"Thank God it wasn't worse. I'd never have forgiven myself, never . . ."

"Are you in love with him, then?" Lucinda demanded inexorably. "Is Bel in love with you?"

With a hysterical note in the laugh that scorned this notion, "No, no," Nelly cried. "He isn't that sort. I don't know what the trouble was between you two, but it wasn't another woman Mr. Druce never as much as held my hand."

Lucinda stood pitiful, contemplating the creature who huddled in the chair, shivering, whimpering a little, gnawing her knuckles, with the dazed eyes of an animal hunted to its last gasp. A murderess by intention, whom the word of any moment might prove a murderess in fact . . .

Incomprehensible the alchemy of the human heart! Lucinda was making up her mind to help a sinner circumvent the justice of the social order . . .

The telephone sounded a peremptory call. Lucinda, answering, heard the voice of her chauffeur.

When Lucinda hung up she found Nelly slowed round in the chair. "That was inspiration. I've arranged to let you steal my car. You can leave it wherever you think it safe to get aboard a train. You can drive, of course?" Nelly nodded.

"Are you strong enough to drive the car yourself?" Lucinda misdoubted for perhaps the hundredth time though for the first openly.

The woman on the bed gave her hand a small jerk of petulance. "Don't worry," she insisted. "I'll be all right. I can drive any make of car there is."

"Where will you go?"

"North, by the Coastal Highway. I might go right through to Frisco. What time is it now? I suppose you wouldn't want to call up Lynn's house and ask . . ."

"I'd rather not."

"I guess it's all over with Lynn now, as far as you're concerned, isn't it?"

"Yes," Lucinda said with the slowness that spells restraint—"as far as I'm concerned, it's all over."

"I'm awfully sorry," the girl asserted, her voice in turn carrying the color of complacency—"I mean, sorry for you. You must've been awfully stuck on Lynn."

"Yes . . ." To offset a choke in her voice Lucinda added with a hard laugh. "Awfully!"

The house telephone came to Lucinda's rescue: Mr. Druce was calling

Lucinda promised Nelly to get rid of Bel as soon as she could, and in return exacted the girl's promise to rest. Then Lucinda shut herself out into the sitting-room.

"SHE RAN YOUR CAR OFF THE ROAD AT A TURN AND OVER A LOW CLIFF TO A ROCKY BEACH."

Bel's light motor coat hung from his shoulders, with empty sleeves, thus disguising that his right arm was in a sling. His feature were drawn and gray, but his eyes keen, steady and (Lucinda made sure, looking sharply) wholly unsentimental.

"You look fearfully tired, Bel. Won't you sit down?"

Irony tinged his flying smile. "No, thanks. I promised, so here I am"

"Well . . .?"

"He's got one chance in a thousand to pull through. Say what you like about that young woman—she can shoot."

Grim watchfulness was rewarded by her slight start.

"Nothing to say?" Bellamy demanded in pitiless humor.

"Thank you for letting me know."

"You didn't know Summerlad was married—?"

"If another man dared ask me that question, I think even you would resent it."

"Perhaps. He delayed at the door. "That girl . . . she got away. Not a trace . . ."

"Are they—is anybody looking—?"

"The police have got the job in hand. They didn't fancy my story at all, at first. They didn't put in beyond me to shoot myself in the right arm to divert suspicion. Only one thing saved me: Nelly'd thoughtfully lost her handbag outside the window, with an extra clip of cartridges in it."

"She must have meant to make sure."

"Oh, she'd had it in mind for a long time. She let a hint fall the other night. Tonight one of the bellhops told me he'd seen her boarding a trolley for Beverly Hills . . . Well: I broke all records, getting out to Summerlad's.

"Lucky . . ."

Bel's words trailed off into a mumble.

"We've telegraphed Summerlad's people in Terre Haute. The family name is Slade. We thought he ought to have them with him . . ."

"But Bel . . ." Bellamy reclosed the door. "About that poor girl . . ."

He looked startled. "That sounds like pity."

"What will happen to her?"

"Nothing—if I can find her before the police do."

"You don't mean you'd help her get away, Bel?"

"If it takes every dollar I've got in the world. Do you realize what it means if she's caught and put on trial? Do you imagine it will be possible then to keep your name out of it? She's bound to tell her story in self-defense, as she's good-looking enough to be acquitted. In six months she'll be starring in a film based on a re-hash of this pretty little affair."

"Then you will help me? I can count on you, Bel?"

Bellamy started excitedly "Mean to say you know where Nelly is?"

"She's here, Bel She came to me, half-mad with anxiety on your account."

"In there?" Bellamy nodded toward the bedchamber end, receiving a nod in reply, strode quickly to the door and threw it open.

The room was empty.

XXXIII

TOWARD morning exhaustion claimed Lucinda absolutely, and for some hours her slumbers were unbroken But she woke up, as it were, against her will, heavy of heart and without sense of having rested.

The bedside clock struck nine, and Lucinda started up in a flutter, thought she would be late and so afford fresh reason for dissension with her director . . . then sank back to her pillow, cringing from memories that came trooping in the wake of the reminder that she was to know no more of Barry Nolan in her life . . .

No more of Nolan, no more of Nelly, no more of Lynn . . . no more of love . . .

Bel came in about ten, by that many sleepless, active, anxious hours more jaded than when she had seen him last.

"You've found her, Bel? Where?"

With a weary nod, Bel dropped into a chair.

"She ran your car off the road at a turn and over a low cliff to a rocky beach. Must have been killed instantaneously."

Neither spoke for a time.

Bel got up. "I'll be getting along, to the studio first and have a word with Lontaine. And then I need Nolan's address"

"Do you think that wise to see Nolan?"

"I won't permit him to spread gossip about your being with Summerlad last night"

"Will he admit your right to dictate?"

"I don't imagine it will be news to him that you're my wife. Your friend the actor seems to have been tolerably busy crowing about his conquest of Mrs. Bellamy Druce—always, of course, in strictest confidence. And Nolan was Summerlad's bosom pal . . ."

The thrust told shrewdly, rewarding Bel with a fugitive moment of sardonic satisfaction. Then the courage with which Lucinda took punishment exacted his admiration

"But I am afraid," she said quietly, "you won't have much success with Nolan."

"On account of your quarrel with him, yesterday . . ."

"I didn't know you knew. Then I presume you know about my new arrangement, with Mr. Zirn"

"Yes But that arrangement's not binding till you've signed"

The tensing of her body betrayed the temper in which Lucinda met his suggestion. "What you really mean is: Have I changed my mind about continuing in pictures, because of this dreadful accident to Lynn?"

ANIMAL WARS.

Carveth Wells, explorer, tells about the whale-killer. It's a big fish, about as long as a Pullman car, living in the ocean around the South Pole country.

As many as 16 seals have been found in the whale-killer's stomach But the whale-killers are not satisfied with merely getting enough to eat They want luxuries—delicacies.

So a gang of them get together and attack a sperm whale until they make it open its mouth Then they tear out its tongue. That's mob attack—warfare.

Cynics point to this as an illustration that war is a natural state, that war is being waged consantly all through nature. So, they reason human war can never be ended There's something to be said on the other side

Up north, the timber wolves are pairing off in couples, peacefully sneaking away into caves to raise their young

Next winter when food will be scarce and hard to catch against a white snow background, the wolves will begin running in packs—their combinations for warfare

It is all a matter of food. Wolves never attack humans unless driven to it by starvation

Of all creatures in nature, ants are the most like humans Ants maintain standing armies, scientifically organized with officers in charge of regiments and battalions

These ant armies, however, are for defense

Occasionally the ant armies line up and march off to attack another colony of ants Sometimes this is for the purpose of capturing neighbor ants and turning them into slaves

But 99 times out of 100, ants do not go to war until their food supply gives out and they must conquer a new one or starve.

The so-called constant warfare in nature is a simple struggle for existence—to obtain food. As soon as food is obtained, war stops.

Nature makes food scarce in the animal world because the constant warfare strengthens the fighters, kills off the weak and inefficient, and permits survival only of the fittest.

There was some excuse, in the natural sense, for men warring in the days when it was nip-and-tuck with starvation.

But today agriculture, mechanical production and the system of distribution are developed to the point where there would be more than enough food for every person on earth if equitably divided.

That destroys the basic excuse for war Anything interfering with the free flow of food is a dynamic generator of war.

DRIVER KILLED IN RACE AS CAR STRIKES A TREE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31.—Charles M. Reynolds, 28 years old, Detroit, Mich. was instantly killed late today, when his car and a car driven by Billy Jackles, Des Moines, Iowa, collided on the sixth lap of a six-mile race at the Independent track, here.

Jackles sustained three broken ribs.

The accident occurred when a car driven by Edward Daly knocked a board off a fence on a curve. Reynolds and Jackles, close behind Daly turned into each other in an effort to avoid striking the board

Reynold's car left the track and struck a tree Jackles' car also bounded off the course and threw the driver out.

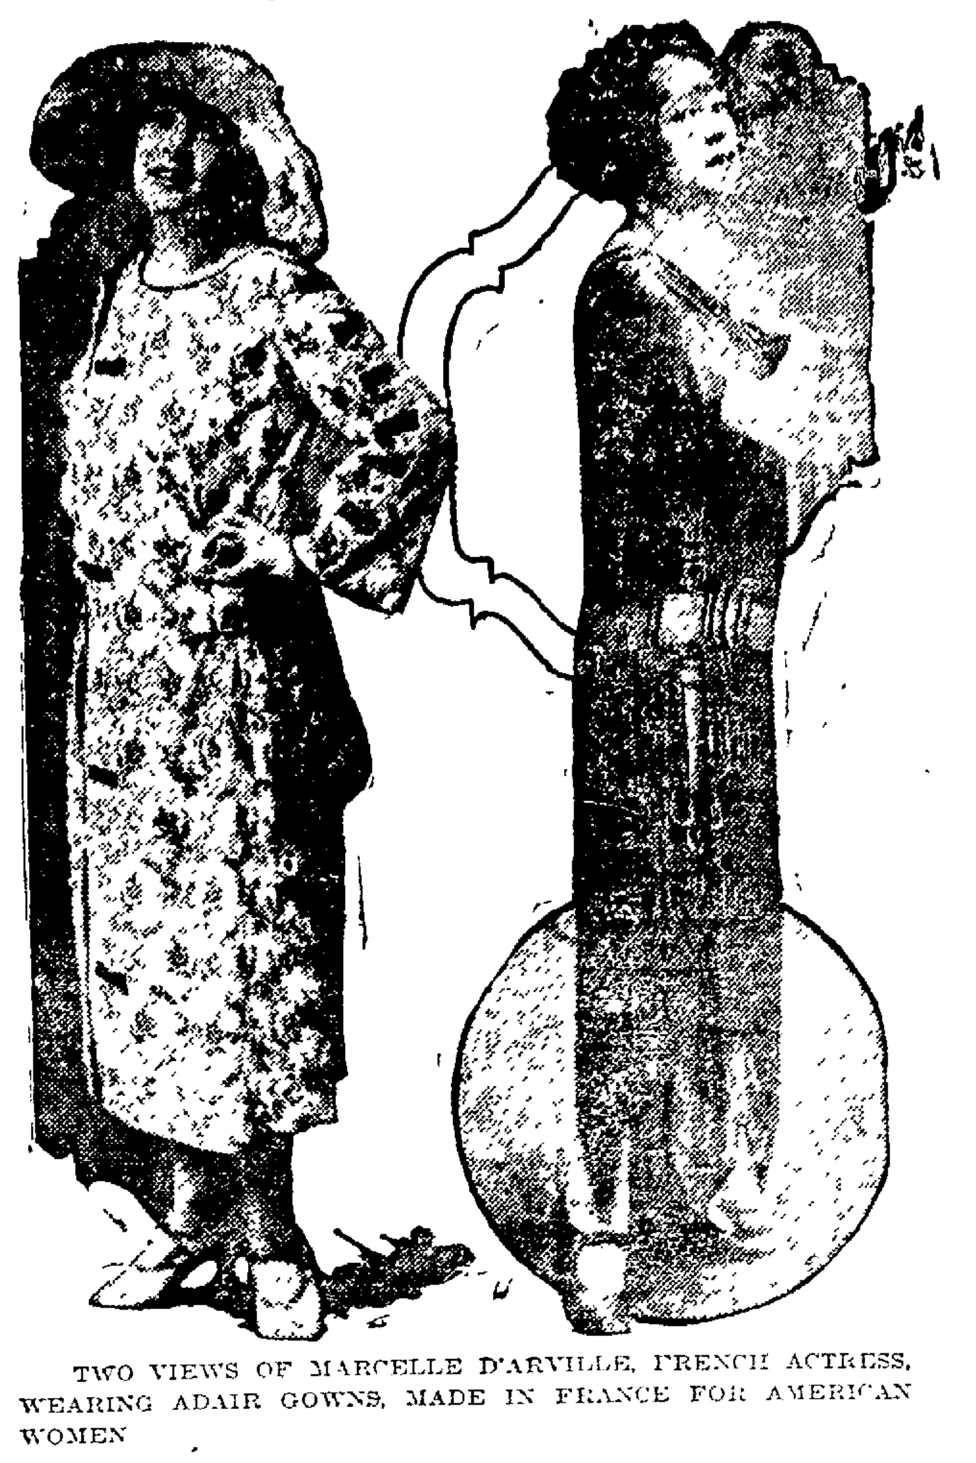
HOW PARISIENNES SPEND LITTLE, DRESS WELL



TWO VIEWS OF MARCELLE D'ARVILLE, FRENCH ACTRESS, WEARING ADAIR GOWNS, MADE IN FRANCE FOR AMERICAN WOMEN

BY MARIAN HALE

AMERICAN women are no longer slaves to French fashions Even France admits that

French designers now are considering the personality and the individuality of American women, and are designing for them quite different styles from what they formerly did when it was the general belief that American women would stand for anything if it had a French label

"French and American women both express their temperament and their ideals in their dress—that is why they dress differently," explains Marcelle d'Arville, French actress, now in America

Mlle d'Arville is considered one of the most beautifully gowned women of the stage—but she is always typically French.

• • •

"American women are so vivacious and so—what you call 'snappy,'" she says "that they seem to like best snappy clothes' Their clothes are witty and clever as they are They have the same dash and 'pep' their conversation has

"French women always try to look picturesque and beautiful

"French women give more time to the selection of their clothes than Americans do. They cannot go out and purchase a wardrobe in a few hours They usually have to give some little individual touch to a gown before it suits them

"I have seen an American girl go into a store and come out an hour later in a new blue serge suit, blouse and hat, and look as smart and dashing as if each piece had been especially made for her. French women could not do that

"I believe the French woman is much more economical than the American Because she has to be Her dress allowance is rarely as large as that of the American women and few French women earn their own money.

• • •

"But French women keep up what clothes they have, and consequently seem to have plenty The French woman always knows how to sew, and from her infancy she is taught to care for her clothes

"If the collar on her gown is unsatisfactory she changes the line, but she does not discard the frock. She goes over a gown each time she wears it and if there are any beads loose, or if any lace is torn she mends it immediately Her gown is in perfect order before she puts it away.

"I have seen American girls get out of a gown, throw it over a chair, let it crumple into a mass of wrinkles and stay that way until someone else or person rescued it I have seen many of them discard frocks that needed only a few stitches and a little time to put into good condition

"But you understand I'm not criticizing the American woman" Mlle d'Arville explained "I believe she could give lessons in smart dressing to every other woman in the world"

RICHES IN TWO WORDS

MARY VITTITOE AND ONE OF THE ADVERTISING SIGNS THAT WON HER SUCCESS.

"SEE Mary!"

This is the challenging trade-mark of America's youngest realty broker and most successful business flapper.

And enough people have heeded it to run her original capital of $300 to $25,000 in two years!

"Mary" is Mary Vittitoe, 18 In Hollywood, field of her activities, she is as well known as her movie neighbors They've even named a street for her.

She credits her phenomenal success to an instinct for advertising a studied desire to give buyers just the property they're seeking square shooting, and an emphasis on her striking personality

"But I don't rely upon my sex to make sales," Mary explains "If I couldn't deliver the good I'd quit

"A high school education, observation and a serious study of human feelings, foibles and conduct complete my equipment

"My advice to business women is Make your town talk about you Don't be a shrinking violet

"Identify your personality as closely and strikingly as possible with your work.

"Get a slogan—something that sticks in folks' minds—something snappy and provocative that rouses curiosity. Curiosity promotes contacts The rest is easy if you have the goods

"A happy hunch prompted me to adopt 'See Mary'—which I use on billboards, in newspapers and every possible channel It has brought thousands to my office and given me the start of a fortune."

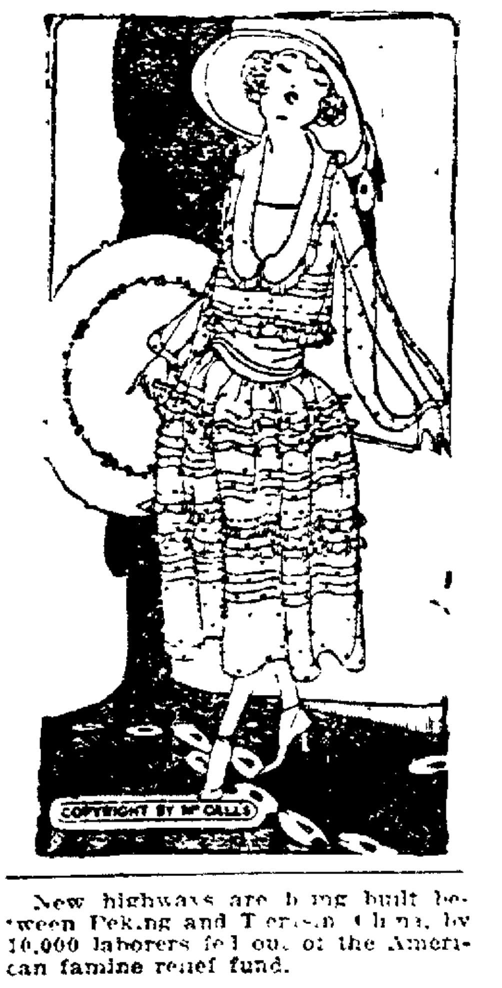
ORGANDIE FOR YOUR BEST BIB—OR DOTTED SWISS

FOR one's best bib and tucked tucker, organdie is recommended Or dotted swiss if you prefer.

Sea green with white or black dots, bright red with blue dots, blue with green dots are some of the variations of the dotted swiss fabrics this summer season

They are trimmed with organdie—white or colored—or with bands of sheer net. The organdie dresses too, use bands of net to excellent effect

Most of them are very simply trimmed—with many roows of narrow tucks a little lace or some ribbon flowers The style illustrated lends itself to the airy stiffness of either material.



STATES' RIGHTS ARE USURPED BY GOVERNMENT

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 31.—Declaring that the federal government is attempting to take charge of all matters affecting citizens of the country, from the birth of babies to the operation of the railroads United States Senator A Wesley Stanley, former governor of Kentucky, in addressing a group of business men at a supper here tonight decried the tendency toward what he termed federal usurpation of States' Rights.

"There are ten bills pending in Congress now which would shadow the principles of States' Rights expounded in the constitution" he said One of these he said, is the so-called anti-lynch bill.

New highways are being built between Peking and Tientsin China, by 10,000 laborers fed out of the American famine relief fund.

Shrine Convention To Be Attended By 300,000 Delegates

(By The Associated Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Three hundred thousand Shriners and friends are expected in San Francisco for the convention of the Shrine June 13-16. Ninety-odd temples will send uniformed patrols with their organizations, and many of them will have bands and chanters in the parades. They will come from every state in the union, from Canada, from the Hawaiian Islands and from Mexico.

Medinah Temple of Chicago, which has a membership of 23,000, will send its delegation in five or more trains; other temples will send organizations on the five or six steamers coming through the Panama Canal from eastern ports. Thousands of automobiles will cross the hot sands of the desre, bringing individual Shriners along the trails of the Argonauts, many of them to camp near Fort Mason in San Francisco.

One million board feet of lumber is being erected into grandstands in the Civic Center, and along Market street and Van Ness avenue for accommodation of 40,000 spectators of three gorgeous pageants. Islam Temple, most of the visiting noble, and citizens of San Francisco have raised $400,000 to do them honor. The city is to be beautifully decorated.

Ten thousand uniformed Shriners, with 75 bands and drum corps, will escort Imperial Potentate Ernest A Cutts of Alee Temple, Savannah, Ga., June 13, to the Civic Auditorium where the imperial council will formally receive Shriners and their friends. Later, the council will hold executive session at Scottish Rite Hall, and in the evening the imperial potentate will visit the several halls where balls will be held in his honor.

The following day, Wednesday, the cornerstone for a hospital for crippled children of any race or creed will be laid by the imperial potentate.

Wednesday and Thursday there will be night parades, Thursday pageant to tell by means of electrically illuminated floats and 10,000 uniformed marchers the story of civilization.

Airplane exhibitions, automobile races and yachting races will be provided for the visitors' entertainment, and they are expected to participate in trapshooting, golfing and other sports.

Imperial council officers probably will be elected June 16. It is believed the only contest will be for [illegible] outer guard, lowest rank of the imperial council. Imperial Deputy Potentate James S McCandless, of Aloha Temple, Honolulu, according to traditional practice, will become imperial potentate, and other officers will move up in their stations.

The convention over, Imperial Potentate McCandless will be escorted to his temple, Aloha, at Honolulu, the accompanying Shriners crossing the seas on their chartered steamer. Aloha Temple will welcome visiting nobles and friends to the Hawaaian Islands, and do them honor.

Poychic Meets Severe Test

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, June 1.—To find a needle in a haystack is popularly supposed to be a feat so difficult that the odds against its successful accomplishment would be something like a million to one. Yet a feat that to theh rdinary man would appear, if anything, still more difficult, has recently been accomplished in Jerusalem, according to newspapers published there. It was nothing less than the finding of a needle hidden in Jerusalem, and with no clue to its whereabouts of which the five senses could take cognizance, except that it was hidden "somewhere" in the city.

This was done by Dr Hanossen who claims to be possessed of something more than the usual five senses and to be endowed with a mysterious "psychic" faculty by means of which he can read thoughts and find out things that cannot be discovered by means of mere sight or hearing. The finding of the needle was accepted as the proof of his claim and he was awarded 100 pounds sterling. He found the needle within 25 minutes, including the time taken to reach the place of concealment.

A committee was appointed to supervise the test and to see that there was nothing of a "put up job" about it. The committee consisted of several journalists, some policemen and an expert in nervous diseases. Dr Hanossen was secured in a house and guard placed over him. Then the members of the committee set forth in motor cars, one of them carrying theh needle.

Several streets of Jerusalm were traversed. Cars and drivers were changed on the way and then, by a circuitous route, the lunatic asylum was reached. There behind a portrait of Sir Herbert Samuel, the needle was hidden. Then the committee returned to the house in which Dr Hanossen had been left and released him.

In a motor car, accompanied by the committee he started out to find the needle. In the course taken the driver followed his diections. After passing through many streets Dr Hanossen left the car and proceeded on foot to the asylum. Arrived there, with hardly a moment's hesitation, he made for the portrait and found the needle.

The proceedings aroused enormous interest in Jerusalem. A crowd of several thousand persons awaited the result of the test, and cheered when Dr Hanossen's success was announced.

Mother Takes Hand In Mathilde's Plans

CHICAGO, May 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—A determined battle to prevent the marriage of Mathilde McCormick, prospective heir to millions, and Max Oser, Swiss riding master, was begun in court today by Mrs Edith Rockefeller McCormick, the 17-year-old girl's mother and divorced wife of Harold F McCormick, millionaire head of the International Harvester company.

Asking a restraining order from probate court to prevent the marriage, Mrs. McCormick declared that because of her "tender age" Miss Mathilde might become "the subject of machinations of designing persons." She added that Oser, being a poor man, desired the marriage "primarily" because he believed in "so doing he will secure large sums of money and financial gain."

The motion was made in Mrs. McCormick's answer to the application of her daughter for appointment of Mr McCormick as her legal guardian. Under the Swiss law, consent of the guardian or both parents of a minor is necessary for marriage.

Judge Henry L. Horner, however, declined to grant even a temporary restraining order, but continued the hearing of the motion until June 3, meanwhile ordering that letters of guardianship be drawn up for Harold F McCormick under bonds of $25,000. Mr. McCormick's counsel, Elwin H Cassell agreed, however, that the guardian's consent to his ward's marriage would not be given before the hearing.

Charles S. Cutting attorney for Mrs. McCormick, indicated he would use every legal means to block consent to the international marriage, by which the granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller would become the bride of the former cavalry officer, who was her riding master for many years during her residence in Switzerland.

Mrs McCormick's answer stated that Mr McCormick was a 'suitable and proper person' to act as guardian "except so far as he may consent to marriage of the petitioner with Oser."

Believing that his appointment would lead immediately to such consent, Mrs. McCormick declined to consent to the appointment and asked that the guardian be restrained from giving consent to marriage until further order of the court.

Neither Mrs McCormick, Miss Mathilde nor her father was in court. Judge Horner read Mrs McCormick's answer carefully. It sat up these points:

That Mathilde is a minor child, having reached her seventeenth birthday only last month.

That Mrs McCormick believes that the "sole object" of seeking appointment of a guardian "is to permit him to give his consent, pursuant to the requirements of Swiss law, to the marriage of Mathilde McCormick and one Max Oser, a citizen of the Confederation of Switzerland, and not an American citizen."

That Mrs McCormick does not approve of the contemplated marriage.

Objections to Oser were listed as his age, his Swiss citizenship, that he is without a regular and certain income," and that Mathilde's marriage to him might involve her in "machinations and intrigues."

Attorney Cassell denounced the petition as an "unusual and unheard of proceeding." He argued that Mrs. McCormick admitted her former husband was a fit and proper person to act as guardian, yet declined to consent without setting up a sufficient reason. He declared that without proper evidence of unfitness there was nothing for the court to do but grant the request of appointment of Mr McCormick.

Deplore "Pity Poor Preacher"

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 1.—Asking pity for "the poor old preacher" is a "rank injustice and only succeeds in getting his position that much more despised," Rev. Dr F. E. Smith, of Indianapolis, representing the Disciples of Christ, told the annual conference of Interdenominational Secretaries of Ministerial Relief of Protestant church here today.

"Time must be taken to educate the church as to the justice and strategy of the care of her workers," he asserted in discussing ministerial pensions.

"The business world has long ago accepted the sound sense of such provision. It is an awkward circumstance that the church whose workers have largely brought about such benefits for the workers in business should last of all confer these benefits upon her own.

"The preachers must learn to speak out, not for themselves as they mistakenly think, but for their comrades in service whose work is done. The preacher while protecting himself, in his modesty, from foolish criticism, denies the only voice that can be raised on behalf of godly men and women who have spent their all in the ministry."

FRENCH WOMAN SENDS TRIBUTE TO UNKNOWN

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31.—The Quartermaster General of the Army received, through the State Department, a touching tribute which was placed on the grave of the unknown soldier in Arlington National Cemetery today. It is a large star beautifully hand-embroidered with the inscription "To your dear and regretted unknown soldier, the French people remain thankful forever, Memorial Day 1922." This is a gift from Rochefort-ur-Mer, Charente Inferieure, France. On each point of the star is an artificial flower with a brilliant in its heart.

Madame Raveau sent her tribute to the American Consul at Bordeaux with the message: "The flowers on each point are symbolical of France's regret, and the brilliants of her tears." He forwarded it to Washington.

The Raveau family devoted themselves to the decoration of the graves of American soldiers at Rochefort until all the bodies were removed from the temporary American cemetery there, and gave every help to the American Graves Registration Service in its work in the area around Rochefort. They made many friends among the American soldiers who were stationed at Rochefort during the war.

WORKERS STUDENTS IN NEW LABOR COLLEGE

CLASS OF WORKINGMEN IN SESSION AT THE SYRACUSE LABOR COLLEGE. BELOW, HARVEY M. WOODWARD, SECRETARY OF THE SYRACUSE TRADES AND LABOR ASSEMBLY.

BY HARVEY M. WOODWARD
Secretary, Syracuse Trades and Labor Assembly

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 1.—The Central Trades and Labor Assembly here is sponsoring the most unusual experiment in the history of American organized labor—the Syracuse Labor College.

It is a plan to give workingmen, actually engaged in their trades, a college education—to give unionists a sound economic foundation to the end that they may "see the other fellow's side as well as their own."

Syracuse professors volunteered to conduct the classes, give lectures and hold weekly forums.

Economics was designated as the initial course with professor Crafer in charge. They classes, held every Thursday night, have been a huge success.

Close to 100 men, with a few women, are enrolled. Interest is growing weekly and it is a certainty that when the college starts its fall semester, courses will be added in government, history, business, sociology, and oratory.

The sessions of the economics class are split between lectures by the professor in charge and a round table discussions.

Sixteen sessions originally were scheduled for the economics course, but this number will be exceeded. No casual survey of a topic is satisfactory to the students. They insist upon "digging."

The first lesson discussed factors in modern production and the shares assigned to each. Evolution of the forms of business units next was considered.

Then came:

Evolution in the forms of labor organizations. Labor legislation. Protective legislation for workers. Minimum wages laws. Liability of employers for accidents to workers. Status of organized labor before the courts. Immigration and effects on labor. Settlement or prevention of industrial disputes. Organized labor and Americanization. The closed shop vs. the open shop. Profit sharing. Industrial democracy. Industrial remuneration. Unemployment.

Students at the Syracuse Labor College pay no tuition fee. The Trades Assembly pays the university extension department which recompenses the professors. Non-union workers are enrolled on par with the members of unions, nor is there any charge to them.

Looking into the future, the originators of the Syracuse Labor College see a very definite and valuable result. Much of the industrial—and consequently economic—turmoil of the day is attributable, they believe, to failure on the part both of laborer and capitalist to understand and put into practice the sound principles of economics.

The Syracuse Laborf School already has been so successful that the American Federation of Labor is planning to expand it on a national scale.

How Housewives Union Operates

(By The Associated Press)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 1.—Co-operation and scientific management have reached the kitchen in Scandinavia. The caloric contents of theh market basket are no longer dependent on chance or the persuasive eloquence of the grocer and butcher, but regulated by culinary science.

The annual congress of Northern Housewives Union, attended by delegates representing some 50,000 Scandinavian and Finnish members of the National League of Swedish Housewives, the Danish Housewives' Association, the Norwegian Home Welfare Association and the Martha Union of Finland has just adjourned in Stockholm after a successful session, where most of the modren problems of the modern housewife were deliberated and discussed at length. There were no theoretic or revolutionary measures on the agenda, only practical problems such as face any housewife any day of the week.

These housewives' unions have exerted considerable influence in dealing with servant questions and regulating market prices on necessities. Thus the Swedish League during the war and during the hard times following established co-operative stores and formed buying associations that exercised a strong regulating effect on the price level of household necessities, especially foodstuffs.

The congress just closed adopted resolutions to arrange for a vacation course of instruction in domestic science and other matters affecting the home at the Aas Augricultural School in Norway, where students will receive instruction in various household duties, under capable instructors and will witness demonstrations of the latest methods of running a modern home.

Mrs Agnes Ingelman, president of the National League of Swedish Housewives, said in an address to the delegates that women nowadays have to keep in touch with politics, public administration and legislation affecting the home. They must get together, she said, and work for the safeguarding of the home, as for instance in its building and fitting up in arranging home exhibitions and stimulating public instruction in domestic sciences and in establishing employment bureaus, libraries and day nurseries.

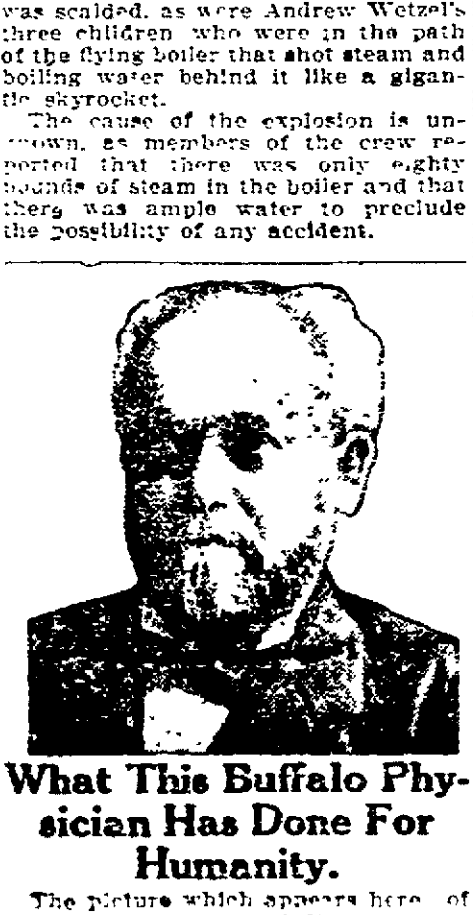
8 PERSONS SCALDED AS TRACTION ENGINE BOILER EXPLODES

ROCKPORT, Ind., May 31.—Eight persons were scalded, three of them probably fatally, and one, a man 77 years old, escaped death miraculously today, when the boiler of a traction engine exploded at Buffaloville near here. The boiler leaped over Daniel Wetzel, 77, hurling him to the ground, and catapaulted through the air. Wetzel was considerably shaken up and slightly scalded.

Andrew Wetzel, son of Daniel, was beside the traction engine when the boiler exploded. He was crushed and scalded. His brother, Carl Wetzel and Brad Colnor, who were near-by were hurled 30 feet into a field, the three rendered unconscious and their recovery is doubtful.

Robert Ferguson, working a road, was scalded, as were Andrew Wetzel's three children who were in the path of the flying boiler that shot steam and boiling water behind it like a gigantic skyrocket.

The cause of the explosion is unknown, as members of the crew reported that there was only eighty pounds of steam in the boiler and that there was ample water to preclude the possibility of any accident.



What This Buffalo Physician Has Done For Humanity.

The picture which appears here of Dr Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., was taken in 1910. As a young man Dr Pierce practiced medicine in Pennsylvania and was known far and wide for his great success in alleviating disease. He early moved to Buffalo and put up in ready-to-use form, his Golden Medical Discovery, the well-known tonic for the blood. This strength-builder is made from a formula which Dr Pierce found most effective in disease of the blood. It contains no alcohol and is an extract of native roots with the ingredients plainly stated on the wrapper. Good red blood, vim, vigor and vitality are sure to follow, if you take this Alterative Extract. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery clears away pimples and annoying eruptions and tends to keep the complexion fresh and clear. This Discovery corrects the disordered conditions in a sick stomach, aids digestion, acts as a tonic and purifies the blood. Write Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. GIRL'S AIM WAS FAULTY

CHESTER, Pa., May 31.—The ex-extreme nervous condition of Miss Fannie Kaplan saved the life of John Cavanaugh, 24, of No. 315 East Fourteenth street, today. The girl became desperate when reports reached her [illegible] that Cavanaugh had circulated stories derogatory to her character. Miss Kaplan who is 21 years of age, sought Cavanaugh and after a few words drew a revolver and began firing. Her poor aim owing to her excited condition, caused the bullets to go wide of the mark. Cavanaugh struggled with the girl and finally wrested the revolver from her. Both were placed under arrest.

The shooting occurred at the Sun Shipyard, where Cavanaugh is employed. At the time the man was assisting with making repairs to the damaged steamship Alexandria. The girl was admitted to the yard under the pretense that she wanted to converse with Cavanaugh.

When Howard Richardson entered the office he found Cavanaugh and Miss Kaplan struggling for possession of the revolver. The girl was held in the sum of $1,000 bail. At the hearing today Cavanaugh refused to enter a charge against Miss Kaplan and both were discharged. Cavanaugh denied that he had talked about the young woman. It was stated that in all probablitity civil action will be taken by Miss Kaplan and her father against Cavanaugh.

This Convention Is Costly One

(By The Associated Press.)

HOUSTON, Tex., June 1.—The convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen costs the organization $62.06 a minute during convention sessions, according to figures compiled by John F. McNamee, editor of the brotherhood magazine.

The brotherhood has 904 lodges, he said, each of which is entitled to one delegate at conventions. The delegates receive a salary of $8 a day and are allowed $6 a day for expenses, or a total of $14 a day. A bit of multiplication shows the brotherhood pays out for each working day of six hours $18,760, or $3,126 an hour.

The 1919 convention of the brothernood held in Denver cost the brotherhood slightly more than $600,000. It was in session 32 working days. Printing bills at the Denver convention totalled $30,000.

There will be a meeting of the Shakespeare Study Club this (Thursday) afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Richard Carter on West Main street.

They Couldn't Know

BACK in 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of the population.

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales methods of today. It could not see the vital part that would be played by advertising.

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, antiseptic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up-to-date on the many things we need in order to live profitable, happy and useful lives. It presents for our approval articles of all kinds and for all purposes. The requirements of each member of the family are met by advertised offers of good merchandise of proved value.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

BEARD CHAMP MEETS FUN AND FAME IN SACRAMENTO

FROM LEFT TORIGHT: ZACH WILCOX, OWNER OF A 14-FOOT BEARD, IRVIN ENGLER, WHO INTRODUCED THE TWO BEARDED GENTS, AND HANS LANGSETH, CHAMP "WHISKERINO" OF THE WORLD.

BY HANS LANGSETH

Champion "Whiskerino" of the World and Owner of the 17-Foot Beard That Won NEA Service National Long Beard oCntest)

ACRAMENTO, June 1.—Well, I never thought that a set of whisers could get a fellow so much fun nd fame.

And Isurely seem to be "Queen of ie May" and envy of all the boys in is community. You see everybody's een growing whiskers here for the 9 celebration and it seems like a al set was something like striking e mother lode in the old days.

You bet, I'm having a good time! hey've had the band out and a paade and the program is that I'm to e crowned with a wreath of Caliornia poppies by some pretty gals nd given some trophies and things.

And I've met the only man that eems to be in the whisker class with ie. His name is Zach Wilcox, and e comes from Carson City, Nev. He's ot 14 feet of whiskers, which is retty good, and he takes his defeat ke a man.

This takes me back half a cenary pretty near, when I first started rowing 'em. I was 29 and on an owa farm. It started with curiosity. wondered how long the beard would row. For 47 years I let 'em grow. t was 13 years ago I combed 'em ut, to have a picture taken, for, ou see, I keep 'em braided. I've ever combed 'em since, but I'm going to do it again now.

But just wait until my sons grow old. I've got five of them and they've all got full beards. I'll bet that any one of 'em will be able to show me up some day if he takes the notion.

CREDENTIALS

SACRAMENTA, Cal. June 1.—Here are the unique credentials with which the "whiskerinos" of the Sacramento '49 Days Celebration have acclaimed Hans Langseth, of Barnedy, N. D., the "world champion:"

"Whereas, the Whisker Club was incorporated under the laws of the Golden West, and

"Whereas, the chief purpose was to encourage the growth of horny fibrous substances with a central medulla enclosing pigment cells.

"Now, therefore, the title of King Whiskerino of all the world is hereby conferred upon and invested in H. Langseth, Barney, N. D., to reign supreme over all whiskerinos during the remainder of his life, or until some other human being grows a longer beard."

MAY ASK LEGISLATURE FOR NEW CITY CHARTER

ATLANTA, Ga., May 31.—Proposals to ask the legislature for a new charter for Atlanta which would include many other things and a city manager form of government were voted down at a special election today, the unofficial count being 7,267 to 6,069 in favor of the present charter with several amendments. The election was a run-off between the two plans that got the largest vote in the recent election in which three charters were offered.

A Great

Radio Romance

"On Wings of Wireless" is a mystery story as marvelous as radio itself. It is the story of super-criminals who seize upon the radio as a tool in their collosal crimes. It is a story that will interest every radio fan, every fiction fan.

We are proud that through NEA Service we were able to engage Arthur B. Reeve, America's greatest writer of detective stories, to produce this novel especially for our readers.

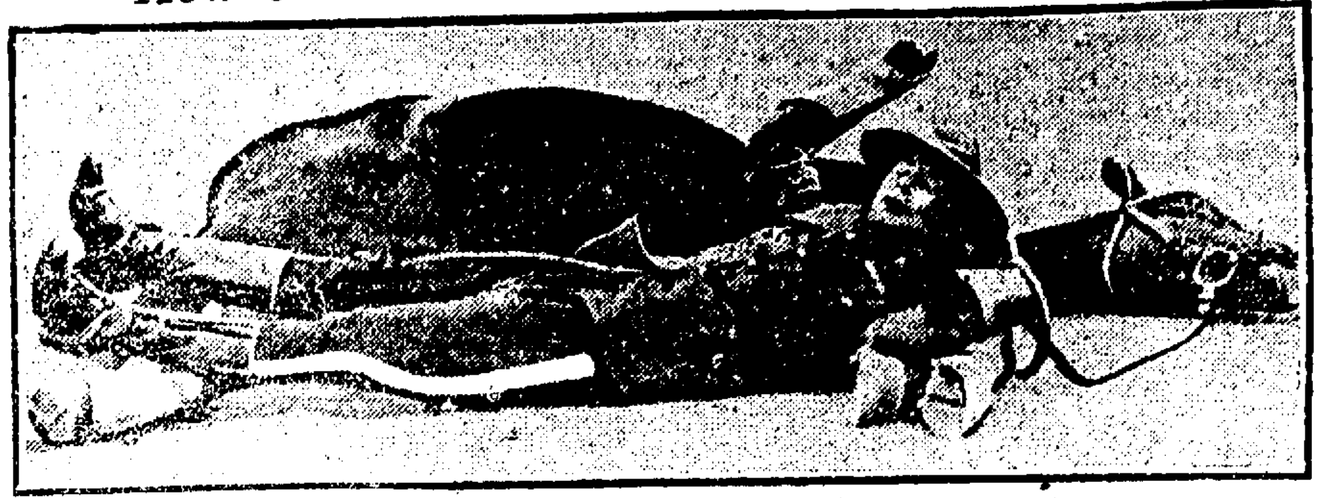
SWITCHING CHARGES REDUCED

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 31.—Switching charges on the New Orleans Public Belt Railroad, the interchange system by which cars of the different lines are transferred to other lines, spotted at the wharves and delivered at the doors of the shippers, are reduced from $7 to $6 a car as a result of the recent freight rate decreases ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

How Northwestern "Mounties" Train Steeds



No, horse and rider aren't dead. Just one of the circus tricks the Northwestern Mounted Police teach their horses. "Rookies" have to train their own mounts.

HORATIO BOTTOMLEY DRAWS SEVEN YEARS IN PRISON

LONDON, May 30.—(By Associated Press).—Horatio Bottomley, former publisher of John Bull, was found guilty today by a jury on the charge of misappropriation of funds belonging to the Victory Bond Club. He was sentenced to seven years' penal servitude.

Immediately after sentence was passed Bottomley served notice that he intended to appeal the case. He has been one of the most prominent and picturesque figures in the public eye for many years, principally as editor of John Bull.

It took the jury barely half an hour to return the verdict of guilty. This is the latest of several charges of fraud made against Bottomley. Years ago, he figured in several notorious fraud cases, none of which, however, resulted in his conviction.

A remarkable scene occurred outside the Court after sentence had been passed. A crowd surrounding the Old Bailey surged after the van which was conveying Bottomley to prison, and strong police measures were required to quell the demonstration, which curiously had no vocal expression.

Bottomley's conviction was immediately made known in a message by the Judge to the Speaker of the House of Commons, who formally announced it in the House. This automatically vacates Bottomley's seat in the House for South Hackney, which constituency he served in Parliament from 1908 to 1912, and again beginning in 1918, when he was re-elected.

Bottomley, in an appeal to the jury, said it would be an "appalling disaster, and the most appalling error in justice that the world has ever known if a verdict of guilty is found against me."

Bottomley in recent years has made numerous bitter attacks upon the United States in his publication, chiefly during the earlier years of the world war.

W. P. G. HARDING INDORSED

SPOKANE, Wash., May 31.—Resolutions approving the reappointment of W. P. G. Harding, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, favoring legislation increasing the discretionary power of the State Supervisor of Banking in issuing new bank charters, approving the educational campaign of the American Bankers' Association and pledging support of organizations working to solve taxation problems were passed at the Washington Bankers' Assoicatior's annual meeting.

MARY PICKFORD'S DIVORCE FROM MOORE SUSTAINED

CARSON, Nevada, May 31.—Mary Pickford's divorce from Owen Moore was sustained today when the Nevada Supreme Court affirmed the order of District Judge Frank P. Langan, quashing service of summons in the action brought by Attorney General Fowler to set aside the decree granted the movie star.

The divorce of Miss Pickford from Owen Moore, also a screen favorite, at Minden, Nevada, March 20, 1920, precipitated an action by the state for the dissolution of the decree on the ground that Miss Pickford's residence in the state had not covered the period required by law. The district court in which the divorce was granted, was asked to review its decision and reverse itself, but held that the action had been regular and that the decree would stand.

Attorney General Fowler then appealed to the state supreme court, charging that the divorce was obtained through "fraud and collusion" on the part of Miss Pickford and contending that the Minden court had no jurisdiction.

The defense answered that the state was not an aggrieved party and therefore had no authority under the Nevada law to prosecute the action. Arguments were heard here January 30.

Miss Pickford married Douglas Fairbanks two weeks after the divorce.

GOLF TOURNAM'NT OF THE CAROLINAS

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 31.—Five Ridgewood Club players, and one each from Greenville, Charlotte and Pinehurst, remain in the first flight of the golf tournament of the Carolinas now being played at Ridgewood Country Club here as a result of the elimination matches continued today.

The Columbia players surviving are Gibbes, Hyatt, Harris, Hudgins and Snand. Schofield of Pinehurts, Laxton of Charlotte and Bonham of Greenville are the other players in the first flight.

F. H. Hyatt, former champion of the Carolinas defeated K. S. Show, runner-up in last year's tournament, today, an extra hole being necessary to decide the match.

F. M. Laxton, of Charlotte, champion of the Carolinas and J. H. Gibbes champion of Ridgewood Club, Columbia, are scheduled to meet tomorrow.

HYDROPLANE ENGAGES IN RACE WITH DEATH

NORFOLK, Va., May 31.—For the second time within a month, a naval hydroplane is making a race against death down the North Carolina coast, where doctors are few and ordinary means of transportation ineffective.

The plane, an F-8-L, piloted by Lieutenant Cromwell and bearing Surgean Fred N. Engle, took off at the Hampton Roads Naval Air Station about 8 o'clock this morning in answer to urgent requests for medical assistance for the wife of Surfman W. W. Willis, of the Chicomico Coast Guard Station, who is seriously ill.

The message was received by Captain D. F. A. deOtte, Coast Guard district supervisor, who communicated at once with the naval authorities. The nearest doctor to Chicomico lives twenty miles from the station, and, while he had agreed to handle the case, advised by telephone last night that he was unable to make his way over the roads, which have been rendered impassable by recent rains.

It was not known at the Naval Air Station this morning whether the patient would be brought here or whether the case would be handled at Chicomico.

COLUMBUS HAS ANOTHER MGR.

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 31.—Henry B. Crawford, a prominent contractor of this city, was elected city manager here late today in place of H. Gordon Hinkle, Altoona, Pa., recently dismissed, at the regular meeting of the city commissioners. Mr. Crawford was sworn in and entered upon his duties at once.

Hinkle, accompanied by his wife and his secretary, Miss Viola Langham, left the city suddenly last week and his place was declared vacant by the commissioners.

Investigation was continued today by city and county authorities of the recent anonymous threatening letters sent to city and county officials and the explosion of a bomb at the home of Mayor Dimon but there were no developments, it was stated.

87,000 BABIES BORN IN NORTH CAROLINA IN 1921

RALEIGH, N. C. May 31—Advance figures from the North Carolina Bureau of Vital Statistics, compiled by Dr. F. M. Register, preparatory to the insurance of a general report, show that during 1921 births in this State exceeded deaths by 59,000. During the year there were 87,000 babies born in North Carolina, while the number of deaths was only 28,000. This gives the State a birth rate of 33.4 for the past year and a death rate of only 11.6.

A. C. L. TO ACCEPT FREIGHT RATE CUT ANNOUNCED

WILMINGTON, N. C., May 31.—The Atlantic Coast Line railway company will accept the ten per cent general decrease in freight rates [illegible]ed for in a recent semi-order of [illegible]terstate Commerce Commission, [illegible]dent John R. Kenly announced tonight.

President Kenly also stated that practically every road included in the Southern group would voluntarily make the reduction requested by the commission.

In making the announcement tonight that the Coast Line would accept the reduction, President Kenley stated that his road would find it necessary to cut wages of employes in proportion to the decrease in freight rates.

An increase in volume of business as the result of the cut in rates is looked for by President Kenly, but he expects this to be only temporary. "I do not look for any permanent increase in freight traffic," Mr. Kenly said, "until economic conditions are stabilized in Europe."

Notice of acceptance of the reduced rate order has been forwarded to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

MARTIN WILLS IS HELD

BELFAST, May 31.—Martin Wills, son of a leading Newry merchant, has been captured at Dundalk and is being held by Republicans. Three Kikeel, County Down, men who went by boat to Greenmore, County Louth, also are being held by Republicans.

There will be an important meeting of the Danville W. C. T. U. this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the ladies' parlor of Mount Vernon church. All members are urged to be present.

FLAG WHICH FLEW ON EIFFEL TOWER GIVEN TO NATION

WASHINGTON, May 31—The American flag which flew from the Eiffel tower, in Paris, to mark the entry of this country into the World War has become the property of the nation.

President Harding accepted the flag today from Ambassador Jusserand, of France.

Jusserand said friendship between the two republics would end only when "the stars fall from this glorious banner."

"Perhaps it adds a little to the charm and beauty of the Stars and Stripes and their wonderful coloring to have been consecrated with the love, affection, and reverence of your republic," said President Harding, "but it does add much to that for which the flag stands

"It means a new tie, a new bond of affection, between your republic and ours. It means a new commitment of liberty-loving France and liberty-loving America to the cause to which we have jointly contributed. It means a new assurance that the cordial affection of the one republic for the other will endure for all time to come."

MAYO ELECTED PRESIDENT

NEW ORLEANS, May 31—D. D. Mayo of Knoxville, Tennessee, was elected president, and Knoxville selected as the next meeting place at the concluding session here today of the fourth annual convention of the Southern Seedmen's Association.

Other officers chosen were: Richard O'Bannon, Sherman, Texas; First vice-president, John Ross, Memphis, second vice-president and Frank Love, Montgomery, Ala, secretary-treasurer

Many important resolutions were adopted during the convention including one to sell seeds at cost during the next year to farmers in the flooded districts of the Mississippi river.

TO THE CITIZENS OF DANVILLE

After carefully considering the requests of a large number of friends and supporters, I have decided to become a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Public Utilities of the City of Danville at the November election, subject to the result of the Democratic primary, should one be held.

While I have no criticism to make of anyone. I consider it a worthy ambition of any man to aspire to such an office, and my campaign so far as my influence goes, will be conducted on a high plane and on the basis that the office is one to be filled by the people. My campaign will be in the hands of my friends generally, and the result will be accepted gracefully, whatever it may be.

I assert no special qualification for this office, but it has been my theory of life that constant application and steady perseverence will often accomplish more than genius diversified. I believe my record of twenty-two years' residence in Danville will show that I have given the best I have to every task ever assigned me, large or small, and if elected to this responsible office I promise my undivided time and attention to the discharge of the duties and to the best interest of the city.

I think I am a busy man now and will not be able to see each voter personally but will appreciate your interest and support in this campaign.

Sincerely yours,
E. H. MARSHALL,
Danvlile, Va., May 24.

NEWS OF ROCKY MOUNT.

ROCKY MOUNT, Va., May 31.—Dr. T. H. Francisco now doing evangelistic work in the Holstein Methodist Conference, preached to a large congregation in Scott Memorial Methodist Church, Sunday morning, May 28th, subject: "Secret of Service," using different parts of the tenth chapter of the Book of Acts; it was a forcible and logical sermon, laying stress on preparedness of the ministry, preparedness of the congregation, and the atmosphere of the church.

Dr. Francisco is pleasantly remembered here, having a hosts of friends.

Members of the graduating class of the Rocky Mount High School, Sunday night, May 28th, attended the annual Baccalaureate sermon, which was delivered by the Rev. O. B. Newton, pastor of Cabell-Street Methodist church, Danville, in Scott Memorial Methodist church. The congregation filled the church to its capacity, and many were turned away. Mr. Newton chose for his subject, "Let No Man Despise Thy Youth," first Timothy 4:12. The sermon was a strong message of encouragement to the young people. To make good in life, containing much practical advice as to meet the problems of life with a pure life. In enumerating the characteristics necessary for a successful life were faith, confidence, determination and enthusiasm. Enthusiasm and determination are especially needed in this life of action, also faith is of the utmost importance, pointing out self confidence, should be supplemented by confidence in man and God. The one aim in life, the speaker said, should be service, to which all the characteristics enumerated in the sermon will lead if they are acquired, and practiced.

Miss Lulie Simms, Mrs B S. Robertson, the Rev. Arthur Wake, and Dr. George W. Sutherland, with the assistance of the chorus choir, rendered a beautiful musical program.

Mrs. T. F. Webb was the fortunate winner of the free Chautauqua ticket which was given away Saturday night, May 27th, by Miss Carrie Schneider, the popular manager of the Auditorium theatre. Also Saturday night, June 3rd for the Chautauqua. Miss Schneider will give away another adult and one junior ticket, at the Auditorium theatre. At this time Thomas Meighan will appear in "Conrad in Quest of Youth."

Mr. and Mrs. H D Menefee and Mr and Mrs. D. C. Grubbs motored to Danville Sunday.

Miss Frances Lacy was the week-end guest of her mother, Mrs. Virginia Lacy, at Whitmell.

Mrs. W. L. Hopkins and little daughter, Mary Edmondson, of Richmond, have arrived and are the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Peak, on East Court street.

Those who attended the Historical Pageant in Richmond from Rocky Mount, have returned.

The Rev. O. B Newton and daughter, Miss Ruth Newton, of Danville, are the guests in the home of the Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Wimbish.

Dr. T. H. Francisco, who has been holding revival services in Tennessee for the past several months, have arrived, and is the guest of his family, in Angle apartment. Mrs. Francisco and children will accompany him on his return to Tennessee, Wednesday, May 31st, 1922.

The Rev. J. W. Wimbish is in Stuart, the guest of his daughter, Mrs. W. J. Noell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Webb, and W. A. Belcher were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs Ballard Perdue, near Doe Run, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McCall were the week-end guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Smith, at Glade Hill.

ENTIRE CREW IS ASPHYXIATED

BOURG-EN-VRESSE, France, May 31.—(By the Associated Press)—An entire crew of seven men, running a freight train hauled by two engines, was found dead from asphyxiation in and alongside the engines in a tunnel near Bourn last evening. The freight had been held up by the derailment of two cars The men were found by the crew of another freight train that smashed into the rear of the stalled train.

The men who were killed by the coal gas fumes from the engines, apparently had been working for some time trying to get the derailed cars back onto the track and collapsed while at their tasks.

URGED THE NECESSITY OF SAFEGUARDING SEED

NEW ORLEANS, May 31—Declaring that many crop failures were due to the planting of bad and rotten seed, Commissioner of Agriculture Harry D. Wilson, of Louisiana, in an address today at the fourth annual convention of the Southern Seedmen's Association, urged the delegates present from all parts of the south to exercise every known precaution to safeguard seeds while in transit and in warehouses.

He stressed the necessity of careful inspection of all shipments of seed and told members of the association that there was no cause for shipping "rotten seed" if a few minutes each day was spent in testing and inspection.

H. G. Hastings, of Atlanta, made a brief talk on seed consumption Election of officers and selection of the next convention city will be the principal business before tomorrow's session.

TWO HUNDRED ATTORNEYS EXPECTED TO CONVENTION

LYNCHBURG, June 1—Two hundred attorneys from all parts of Virginia are expected to be in Lynchburg for the annual convention of the Virginia Bar Association which will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The Virginia Hotel is to be headquarters for the convention and the business sessions in the hotel auditorium.

John M Minor, of Richmond, secretary of the association, will set up an office in the lobby of the Virginian Monday where the visiting members will report and register. This will be an information booth and central gathering place for the attorneys.

At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning the opening session will be called to order by William W Odd, Jr. of Norfolk chairman of the executive committee after which the annual address of the president will be delivered by Judge A. W. Wallace of Fredericksburg. Reports of standing committees will be made at the morning session.

Entertainment for the visitors and their wives will be tendered during afternoon and evening by the Lynchburg Bar Association. At 3 30 automobiles will leave the Virginian for Sween Briar where the afternoon will be spent. Tuesday night at 7:30 a buffet supper will be served at the Oakwood Club which will be followed by an informal reception and dancing until midnight. Among the wives of Lynchburg lawyers who will be in the receiving line will be Mrs. Randolph Harrison, Mrs. N. C. Manson, Mrs. S. V. Kemp, Mrs. Fred Harper, Mrs. H. M. Sackett, and Mrs. John L. Lee.

In the Wednesday morning business session a paper will be read by E. P. Burford, of Lawrenceville. In the afternoon James E. Cannon, of Richmond, will explain changed statutes as the result of the 1922 session of the legislature. At 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the women visitors will be guests at a reception at the Womans' Club. Mrs. A. R. Long is making arrangements for this reception. No session will be held Wednesday night but most of the visiting attorneys and their wives will be entertained privately at the homes of their Lynchburg friends.

Election of officers and of members of the executive committee will take place at the Thursday morning session. Senator T. J. Walsh, of Montana, will deliver the annual address at 11 o'clock. Senator Carter Glass is expected to be in Lynchburg at this time and to be a guest of the association. At the annual banquet at the Virginian at 8 o'clock Thursday night toasts will be responded to by visiting members of the association.

Much Married "Capt." Collins Is Ordered Extradited To India

WASHINGTON, May 30—"Capt." Charles Glenn Collins today lost the fight he has been making for more than three years. The United States Supreme Court ruled Collins must be extradited to British India for trial at Bombay.

The technical charge of cheating was made against him by Gineshi Lall & Son and Paroomul & Sons, jewelers, of Bombay, who allege he obtained pearls and diamonds from them valued at 75,000 rupees and that his drafts had been dishonored.

This happened in February 1917. New York and Newport society, he November of that year Collins has been trying to keep out of India. He is now technically in the charge of the United States Marshall at New Orleans, but is free under $10,000 bail.

New York first heard of "Capt." Collins when in 1904, a favorate in according to the jewelers, and since married the beautiful Miss Natalie Schenck daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spotswood D. Schenck. She divorced him, charging he was an inveterate gambler. She married William Laamieer was fatally injured, his wife severely hurt and S. Osgood Pell and his chauffeur were killed in an automobile by a Long Island Railroad train in August, 1913, while returning from Long Island.

The heroine of the gallent Captain's next matrimonial adventure was Mrs. Amelia Wheeler, daughter of Samuel H. Wheeler, a millionaire whose fortune was made out of sewing machines. Collins has admitted Miss Wheeler advanced him money "to get him on his feet." She eloped with him and they were married at Glen Arm, Mr., in August, 1914.

The World War then was threatening. Collins had held a commission in the Queen's Own Highlanders and had served well in Egypt and South Africa. He returned to England, rejoined the army and carried himself so gravely in Belgium, Gallipoli and France that he was decorated. He was wounded seriously and gassed. The former Miss Wheeler, repenting at leisure, had divorced him.

It was in 1918 that Collins again appeared in New York with a third wife, formerly a Mrs. Muntz. Both had been in India and Collins was named in the divorce suit brought by Capt. Muntz. The British government began its efforts to obtain his extradition in 1918. Collins was sent as a Federal prisoner to the House of Delegates in New Orleans where he had been arrested.

He was well supplied with funds, enjoyed many privileges, including a key to the prison, and nearly escaped to a British steamship in June, 1919. He was recaptured by agents of the Department of Justice and was charged with conspiracy against the United States. During his long fight against extradition he appealed to the State Department, which at one time seemed to regard his case favorable.
